

WOMEN GOT PART OF $400,000 FROM TOOMBS & DAILY

Federal Agents Tracing Huge Expenditures in Year by Bankrupt Chicago Firm.

RECIPIENTS TO BE CALLED TO TESTIFY

Heads of Firm and C. E. Clark Under $20,000 Bond for Mail Fraud Hearing Friday.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Payments of several hundred thousand dollars out of the assets of the defunct brokerage house of Toombs & Daily are being traced today by a half dozen Federal agencies, and several women have already been found among the beneficiaries.

Canceled checks recovered by Louis Cohen, counsel for the Federal receivers of the company, showed payments of nearly $400,000 in little more than a year. Cohen announced today as he prepared to subpoena more than 100 persons who have received various amounts from O. R. Daily, treasurer.

The company failed with liabilities of nearly $5,000,000 and meager visible assets, and Roy C. Toombs, president; Claude E. Clark, vice president; and Daily were held in the county jail in $20,000 bail today awaiting a hearing Friday on charges of using the mails to defraud.

One of those to be subpoenaed was William Darling Shepherd, whose defense in his trial for the murder of his bailiwick, William McClintock, Daily financed to the extent of $50,000. Shepherd was acquitted. Others were Miss Camilla Snyder, Daily's former secretary, who Cohen said had cashed checks totaling more than $500,000 in addition to her salary; Maude Skyles, address unknown, the recipient of $25,000 from Daily; Mae Elston, who received more than $1000; Charlotte Snyder, whose name was found indorsed on several checks and who was thought to be connected with the Premier Amusement Co., a theatrical agency to which officers and employees about $25,000 was advanced. Officers of the Jessica gold mine of Colorado are named as the recipients of $30,000.

Postoffice Inspector Walter Johnson, planned to seek from Fred E. Gardner of 2000 E. 11th, a formal complaint against Toombs and other officers of the brokerage house. Gardner testified yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkinson that he bought 500 shares of the company's stock after receiving circulars through the mail containing an inflated financial statement. Federal attorneys said they might lodge a second complaint charging concealment of assets in bankruptcy against the accused officers of Toombs & Daily.

Toombs is under indictment in St. Louis for grand larceny growing out of the removal of $7,500,000 of the assets of the International Life Insurance Co., of which he was president.

CURTIS DECLARES SMITH FORCED PROHIBITION ISSUE

By the Associated Press. PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 15.—A Virginia audience applauded Senator Curtis, the Republican Vice Presidential nominee, in an attack here today on the prohibition and immigration views of Gov. Smith, Democratic Presidential candidate.

In a speech delivered shortly after noon in the armory of the Petersburg Grays, Senator Curtis declared that "prohibition was never an issue until the Democratic candidate declared against the law."

"What has he done to enforce the law as Governor of New York?" Curtis asked. "Not one single thing."

"What has he done to disobey that law?" Senator Curtis asked. "He signed the law passed by the New York Legislature wiping out the prohibition enforcement statute. If you want the law enforced, elect a man who is in sympathy with the laws of the country. I am opposed to any State going into the whiskey business."

The hall was not filled although a large crowd stood outside to hear the speech over amplifiers.

and when Elliott took no action I went to the Law Enforcement League and saw Mr. Nicholson and Mr. McBride. (William R. Nicholson Jr., secretary of the league, and William C. McBride, chairman of the Executive Committee.)

"I went to see if they could help to see if they could stop the graft and help me expose the conditions. Mr. Nicholson said he would take it up with Elliott, but I never heard from him after that time."

Tabbutt said he later spent some of the graft money he received and was asked:

"How did you come to spend it for yourself?"

"Well," he replied, "Elliott took no action, the Law Enforcement League took no action, I got no action from the Philadelphia Sabbath Association and I got disgusted and went along with the crowd."

Nicholson testified Tabbutt had come to him with a list of alleged violators of the law "and a lot of money in his pocket," but that the Enforcement League had been unable to do anything.

"We cannot break through the corrupt conditions that exist here and other places," said Nicholson. "All we can do is ask in a moral way for the proper public officers to do certain things."

Forney had been subpoenaed as a witness, but he was not in court. Instead, a statement by him was read in which he said that the present director, Harry Davis, had demurred against acting on the suggestion of "Tabbutt to trap members of Unit No. 1 through the use of marked money."

The director, the statement added, thought the suggestion "smacked of an intimation to get men to whole the plan did not appeal to Davis."

After discussing the matter with the director, Dr. Forney said he also had reached the conclusion that the plan would be unwise.

Judge Lewis, severely criticized Elliott and Davis, saying:

"I will be glad to hear what they have to say if they choose to come before me and explain why they failed to act on the damning evidence Policeman Tabbutt obtained."

GOV. BAKER ORDERED TO REST

Cancels All Speaking Engagement on Doctors' Advice.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 15.—Gov. Baker announced today that his physicians had ordered him to cancel all speaking engagements for the campaign and to take a rest. Until further notice, the Governor said, he would not grant interviews except on matters of urgent State business.

It has been known by persons close to the Governor that he has been in poor health for several months. His physicians—Dr. J. C. Lister of St. Louis, and Dr. F. W. Gilham of Jefferson City, after an examination today ordered the Governor to curtail his activities.

To Assist Siderer.

Milton F. Napier, lawyer, with offices in the Paul Brown Building, will be appointed Assistant Circuit Attorney, succeeding Edward G. Davidson, resigned. He formerly was a clerk in Circuit Attorney Siderer's office.

control cabin rested on solid ground.

As the dirigible settled on American soil the enthusiasm of the crowd broke all bounds and police lines went down with a rush as the erstwhile patient crowd surged closely about the dirigible.

State police were helpless, but they struggled hard to restore order, and many a blow was struck back the crowd was at last pushed back safely.

A few reporters got on the ship with the 12 customs officers, but they were all ordered out. Brief words were had with a few of the passengers, but they consisted almost entirely of generalities, assertions that every one had had a "fine time," and denials that anyone had suffered from air sickness.

Dr. Albert Grzesinski, Minister of the Interior of Prussia, reported the trip "beautiful" and the reception "wonderful," but declared both were spoiled by the attitude of customs guards who he said "went through his effects with a fine-toothed comb."

He criticized the State police who, he said, surrounded and escorted him "like a dangerous criminal" to the temporary customs office at the hangar. He also expressed displeasure at the way members of the Zeppelin's crew were handled by the officers.

After the Graf Zeppelin was grounded it was taken by the landing crew to the open doors of the hangar, but a 12-mile cross wind was blowing and under these conditions it would not have been safe to try to shoehorn the great ship inside the others. After the passengers were taken off and escorted under guard to the custom room in the hangar the ship was taken out onto the field again and attached to the stub mast near the high mast.

As the Graf Zeppelin lay in the hangar, rising above to the vaulted roof, persons on the ground could plainly see the damaged portion, from which the fabric was torn during the storm over mid-Canada. Preparations were made today for quick repairs, which probably will be made while the Los Angeles is out of the hangar on a training flight.

AMOS PINCHOT WILL SUPPORT GOV. SMITH; ASSAILS HOOVER

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Amos Pinchot, noted Progressive brother of the former Republican Governor of Pennsylvania, has announced his support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in a letter to Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the Progressive League for Alfred E. Smith.

Pinchot hailed Gov. Smith as a new force in American public life. The Governor, he said, has been frank on every important issue of the campaign and has shown a remarkable mastery of the subjects with which he has dealt in his speeches. Roosevelt, La Follette and Wilson would have taken similar positions, he added. On the other hand, Pinchot declared, Herbert Hoover has spoken in terms which commit him to nothing. Hoover, he suggested, is trying to get into the White House through the back door, without showing his credentials.

FIRST ATLANTIC FLIGHT TRIED IN DIRIGIBLE 18 YEARS AGO

Zeppelin Landed Same Date Walter Wellman Started From Atlantic City, but Failed.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The trans-Atlantic flight of the Graf Zeppelin was on the eighteenth anniversary of the first attempt to cross the Atlantic by dirigible, which almost ended in a tragedy.

On Oct. 15, 1910, the 23-foot dirigible, America, started from Atlantic City, N. J., with Walter Wellman of Chicago in command of a crew of five. Engine trouble caused the crew to abandon the aircraft three days later when they were rescued by a steamship about 450 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N. C.

The dirigible, which was up nearly 70 hours, had covered 850 miles after being blown off its course.

REED TO MAKE THREE SPEECHES IN MISSOURI

Democrats Speculating on the Effect, Senator's Participation Will Have on Hay's Candidacy.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 15.—Official announcement last night by Charles M. Howell, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, that Senator Reed will deliver three campaign speeches in Missouri during the closing week of the campaign has reopened speculation as to the effect his participation will have on the candidacy of Charles M. Hay, Democratic nominee for United States Senator.

Notwithstanding a statement by Howell that Reed will deliver his "old-time Democratic speech" and that there will be nothing in it "embarrassing" to anybody, it is difficult for Democrats to believe the Senator can say anything that would be helpful to Hay's candidacy.

Primary Campaign Recalled.

It will be recalled that in the primary campaign when Hay apparently was sweeping the State and the campaign of James A. Collet, his opponent, was lawfully along without momentum. Reed began speaking against Hay and there was an immediate change. He put up into the Collet candidacy and aroused the wet element of the Democratic party. The effect was to cut what appeared to be a certain Hay plurality of from 75,000 to 100,000 to about 35,000.

In those speeches Reed was intensely bitter. To him Hay was a "second Tom Hefflin" and a speech for Hay in the general campaign "would be a speech against Smith."

It is easily conceivable that Reed can avoid criticism of Hay in his speech. That is no difficult performance for any practical politician, such as Reed is, but just what would he do if somebody should arise in one of his audiences, as somebody is apt to, with an inquiry as to whether he should vote for Hay?

The natural Reed course would be for him to enter into a denunciation of Hay's opponent, Roscoe C. Patterson, but Reed never can be counted upon to do the natural thing and that is what is causing Democratic leaders much trepidation.

Leaders Fear Reed Speeches.

They are fearful that the Reed speeches will be cunningly and subtly devised to endow Roscoe C. Patterson with a reputation for a moment. But that laugh breaks the tension of a momentary deathlike silence as the ship righted itself.

In one corner sat the Prussian Minister of Interior, Dr. Grzesinski, very still. Col. Herrera's face was as immobile as ever, his manner was calm as usual.

Steadies in Seven Minutes.

Lady Drummond-Hay, with Herr Bock, began to help the steward clean up the floor. I looked at my watch. In seven minutes the big airship, which following the first jump rolled somewhat, had steadied itself.

Count Brandenstein-Zepplins and Col. Herrera were playing chess. Col. Herrera was playing chess. He was the champion postcard writer of the ship. His aim was to write one souvenir card of greetings from the Zeppelin to each of the 495 deputies in the German Reichstag.

Commander Rosendahl had sensed the squall when we entered the clouds. He got up from the table and went to the bridge. I went to the bridge, too, after the first excitement was over. All the officers were there with Dr. Eckener.

Capt. Flemming was drinking coffee. The faces of all bore serious looks. I learned that about 25 square yards of canvas covering the right stabilizing fin had been ripped off when we plunged at a speed of 70 miles an hour into the squall.

A little later when the stern of the ship began to sag under the damage of rain and other causes, Capt. Flemming in command on the bridge, turned to the Commander and said, "we must start two engines."

Virtually Standing Still.

The ship was practically standing still. The motors were partly stopped, partly idling. Eckener knew that his son was on that fin. He knew, too, that if he ordered the motors to be started in all probability the wind would tear his son, perhaps others, off that perilous place and hurl them into the sea below.

"I must have two motors," again said Flemming. Eckener's face suddenly aged. He looked out of the window from his favorite place in the corner of the bridge. He swallowed hard. Huskily came the command, "start the motors."

There is no telephone communication from the bridge to where damaged stabilizing fin which gaped wide open.

Stabilizer Repaired.

In the wind and rain, with the Zeppelin keeping under way, any sudden acceleration of speed would have brushed them off like flies. Yet they hung on, and worked with Knorr and Ludwig, Buerle, Siegle and others, to cover the gap. The stabilizer carried a large part of the aero-dynamic load. So fast and so well did the group work in their perilous position that by 12 o'clock Dr. Eckener was able to cancel his request to the Navy Department for steamers or torpedo boats to stand by.

Work on the repairs continued on the stabilizer at night when I met Knut Eckener coming down from his daring task. Quiet and modest as he is handsome, it was difficult to get a word out of him about it. It had been the father's pride in the son that had first tipped me off to what was going on almost two weeks away back there in the airship.

The deluge of rain that fell on the silver ship when we dashed into the squall was over soon. All this was in mid-Atlantic Saturday afternoon. By 1 o'clock we were making around 50 miles an hour again, so Dr. Eckener told me. Everybody felt more cheerful.

There were by now evidences that the food was beginning to run low, certainly in the matter of variety. Dry rye bread and butter and bologna sausage was our luncheon. For dinner in the evening we had hot frankfurters and bread and butter. As the electric cooking apparatus was small, the kitchen gets its power from generator that is run by the speed of the ship, and the ship was running slowly, there was little energy with which to heat the water.

Commander Rosendahl had been on the bridge for many hours during the day, ready to aid Dr. Eckener in every way that he could. He was on the bridge when we drove into the heavy squall and saw what happened.

that fin is. What Eckener lived through in the minutes before word was brought to him that his son Knut and the others were safe, only he and God know. On the entire trip since we left Friedrichshafen Thursday morning, Eckener has had but about eight hours' sleep. I was on the bridge at all hours of the night and day, sometimes sitting with him there, always I found him at his post. Always he took his meals there. Saturday night after the accident, he lay down but could not sleep.

Three Men on Watch.

Eckener had given orders that three men be constantly on duty at the edge of the stabilizer to watch if anything more should be carried away, especially to watch sharply whether any of the structure should give way. As there is no electric light there and at night that part of the ship is in darkness, the men crawling about on the duralluminum girders and supports had only flashlights. The fins are about eight feet thick.

The lower surface was ripped away leaving the structural part and the upper canvas cover exposed to terrific wind when in flight. Knut Eckener was one of the heroic men who every day while had to walk out on the girders and trusses in the fin, with nothing below but the tossing ocean, to examine with a flashlight whether all parts were still intact.

Then the commander went back to the lounge and announced the news to the passengers. He said it had been necessary to reduce the ship to half speed until the repairs were made. Silence fell on the passengers. Angry-looking clouds, black and ominous, were all around us, and through them the airship, gently swaying, was moving slowly.

Commander Rosendahl returned to the bridge, conferring with one of the stewards whose tongue had been loosened by the scare. One of the stewards whose tongue had been loosened by the scare, Dr. Eckener and his wife, had asked Washington to rush torpedo boats to help us.

Radio Sent to Navy.

I went front to the bridge again, and learned that Commander Rosendahl, at Dr. Eckener's request, had sent a radio to the Navy Department to have steamers on or near our route stand by in case we needed help.

Some of the passengers had very grave faces, indeed. Two let it be known that this was their last trans-Atlantic flight.

As the main wireless on the Graf Zeppelin, which is one of the weakest of the ship, was dependent on a generator which ran only when the ship was moving, no communication could be had with the outside world. The battery emergency set appeared knocked out too, by the shock of the wind.

This latter set was soon repaired, and the Italian steamer Andros picked up our radio for the Navy Department and relayed it. Some of the officers opposed sending an appeal for help, but Dr. Eckener's attitude was that his responsibility to his passengers was first and came above everything else, including prestige.

Woman Praised for Coolness.

He believed in taking the passengers into his confidence. Faces that had cleared up after the shock grew very grave and long again. The only ray of sunlight in that gloom was the smile and the sparkling cheery eyes and gay laugh of Lady Drummond-Hay, our only woman passenger. In sharp contrast to her usual quiet poise and reserve, the darker the situation seemed to grow the more animated and lively she became. "I am sure that one or two of the male passengers had in their thoughts to the effect that 'this fool woman doesn't know what we are up against.'"

But she did know. None knew better. She had faced death twice before on water. She asked as a special favor that nothing be kept from her. Later, more than one of the passengers blessed the presence of "that brave little woman."

In the afternoon Dr. Eckener stopped at the cabin of Lady Drummond-Hay for a moment to congratulate her on her coolness. He thanked her for "having so largely contributed to maintaining the spirit and courage of the men."

In the meantime, a number of the crew began to make repairs on the damaged stabilizer under the direction of Chief Engineer Siegle and Buerle. Knut Eckener, chip off the old block, with Herr Sant, both helmsmen, understood the extremely perilous task of getting on top of the giant airship at the stern. They crawled out on the damaged stabilizing fin which gaped wide open.

"Hot Dogs" for Dinner.

Saturday after a dinner of "hot dogs," Walter Kieffel, one of the two German correspondents on board, brought out a gramophone and we had our first music. It served to cheer everybody up a bit. Commander Rosendahl and I paid a last visit to the bridge shortly before midnight. It was a starlit night with light clouds. We were boring into a stiff head wind. Dr. Eckener was in his customary place in the corner and Walter Sherz, very efficient navigation officer, had just come off duty in the navigation room. Rosendahl and I decided to turn in for a while.

Sunrise Sunday morning brought us a disagreeable surprise. It depressed the spirits in the lounge and started whispered criticism and grumbling. It developed that there had been a big mistake in reckoning our position the evening before and that we were not so far along as we had been led to believe. We had got off our course during the night. What was also possible was that our speed had been over-estimated. It is not easy to measure or estimate the speed of aircraft over water. With most of the coffee and tea cups smashed on Saturday morning during the squall, our coffee came in glass breakfast bowls. To soothe the impatience before breakfast, Kieffel again started the gramophone, but music was not very satisfying to hungry stomachs.

Sunday dragged along slowly. We were boring into a 35-mile head wind from the west and limped along at only between 20 and 25 miles an hour ground speed. It was just about what a fast steamship makes. At 1 o'clock we were as Dr. Eckener told us on the bridge—80 miles east by north of Bermuda.

Because of the badly damaged stabilizing fin, the commander had search for evidence to furnish basis for prosecution.

CLERK IDENTIFIES MAN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING DRUGGIST

Customer Also Says Thomas
Murphy Chased C. A.
Reilly Into Back of Store
Where He Was Shot.

DEFENDANT SHOUTS AT STATE WITNESS

"Why Don't You Tell the Truth?" He Cries at Testimony That Police Were
"Nice" to Him.

Testimony continued today in the trial of Thomas Murphy, 27-
year-old ex-convict and drug addict, charged with the murder of Charles A. Reilly, shot and killed in an attempted holdup in his drug store at 2400 Chippewa street, June 16.

The State is asking for the death penalty. The defendant has repudiated a signed confession, and asserts police mistreated him.

A customer who was in the drug store when Reilly was shot, Ralph
J. Bold, 24-year-old tinner, 4175A
St. Louis street, identified Murphy
as the holdup man who followed Reilly to the rear of the store
where the fatal shot was fired.

At this, the defendant, his pale face flushing as he rose in his chair, shouted: "Why don't you tell the truth?" When a courtroom bailiff pushed him back in the chair, the defendant turned and cried out: "What am I going to do—let him swear my life away?"

Order was restored, and Detective-Sergeant Frank Dempsey, who arrested the defendant an hour after the murder, took the stand to testify that the confession was voluntary.

The case is being tried before a jury in Circuit Judge Hall's Court.

The principal witness was Kenneth Wirtle, 17-year-old clerk in the store, who identified the defendant as the armed man who followed Reilly into the rear part of the store where he was shot to death. The holdup man had been driven to the store in a taxi cab and had compelled the driver to walk before him into the store.

Clerk's Story of Shooting.
"I started to wait on the first man," the clerk testified, "and then I saw that the man behind him had a revolver. This man said, 'Not one of you move.' I ordered—I didn't move. Mr.
Reilly ducked under the soda fountain and ran behind the prescription counter. The armed man also ran behind there. They both passed out of sight. I heard a lot of shots, the bottles falling back there, and then I heard a shot. I ran out."

"The man with the revolver ran out of the store and drove away by himself in the taxicab. The engine had been left running."
Could you identify that man?
asked Assistant Circuit Attorney Bowdoin.

"He's the man," replied the witness, pointing to the defendant.
"Are you positive?"
"Absolutely."

have been signed by Murphy following his arrest. Circuit Judge Hall ordered the jury to retire while the point was debated. After two hours Judge Hall ruled that the jury must pass on the eligibility of the signed confession.

Murphy, who took the stand in the absence of the jury, admitted
he had served two terms in a Tennessee penitentiary. He denied the robbery and said Chief of Detectives Kaiser and other members of the Detective Bureau had struck him and knocked him down before, in a dazed condition, he had signed a confession which was dictated to him. Detective Dempsey, who arrested Murphy, and other detectives, testified that no force had been used and that Murphy voluntarily admitted the crime and signed his confession.

URGES CURB ON DEALERS IN FRAUDULENT STOCK

H. R. Hayes Tells Investment
Bankers Tax Evils Also Require Correction.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—The
—Correction of State and local tax evils, and a further curb on fraudulent stock operators were urged
by Henry R. Hayes of New York, in his presidential address at the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America today.

"State and local taxes have increased to an alarming extent and have failed to follow the reduction policy of the Federal Government," Hayes declared. He recommended the appointment of a committee to deal with the subject and called upon an existing committee on Federal taxation to undertake a detailed study of a new national income tax law, which he believed this country would be considering in about two years. Hayes also asked the delegates to urge the adoption of a uniform state public utility commission law.

Declaring that an immediate need existed for more Federal assistance in curbing traffic in fraudulent securities, Hayes advised more complete enforcement of existing statutes rather than further legislation of the blue-sky type. He reported a committee of the Postmaster-General had been appointed for an additional Postoffice Department appropriation of $300,000
a year for additional inspectors to prevent swindling.

INDEPENDENCE DAY SERVICE ADOPTED BY EPISCOPALIANS

House of Bishops Approves It Though Opposition Fears "Perpetuating Antinomies."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church today approved a set of collects, epistles and gospels for use in Independence Day services.

Bishops Thomas F. Gailer, Tennessee; C. E. Brewster, Connecticut, and William Manning, New York, led a fight against adoption of the new service, which was approved at the general convention
three years ago.

Bishop Brewster said the epistles, taken from the Old Testament, which referred to God as "mighty" and "terrible" would tend to "perpetuate the antinomies
of the Revolutionary War."

NEGRO SHOT DEAD IN A FIGHT WITH TWO PATROLMEN

Hence Davis, 20, Killed by Probationer Coming to Rescue of Brother Officer, Bitten and Beaten.

Hence Davis, 20-year-old Negro, 1113A High street, died early today
of two bullet wounds in the back and right arm inflicted by a policeman yesterday afternoon.

Probationary Patrolman Andrew Meyers reported he went to the Davis home to quell a disturbance and found Davis beating his mother and another Negro woman with a rubber hose. Davis resisted arrest, the policeman reported, and with the help of the two women knocked the policeman down, tore off his badge and took his revolver.

Probationary Patrolman Raymond Roessler, summoned by neighbors, arrived as Meyers was engaged with the Negroes in the yard.
He reported Davis ran up a flight of stairs with Meyers' revolver and fired a shot at him, whereupon he returned the fire and wounded Davis.

"Meyers was bitten in the left arm by one of the women and his face was cut and bruised. Davis denied firing at the policeman. He and the women said they were "just playing" with the hose when Probationary Meyers interfered.

UNCLOTHED MAN ARRESTED

Officer Attracted by Crowd Following Him on Market Street.

A man who walked into a doorway near Seventeenth and Market streets this morning, removed his clothing, and walked on in the rain, was arrested near Fifteenth street by Police Sergt. Michael Flavin and taken to the observation ward of City Hospital. A crowd which followed him attracted Flavin to the scene.

At the hospital he said he was George Etzwiler, a machinist.

COLLAPSES ON STREET; DIES

Frank J. Miner of Newburg, Mo., Found Unconscious at 1809 Olive.
Frank J. Miner, a real estate operator of Newburg, Mo., was found lying unconscious early this afternoon on the sidewalk in front of 1809 Olive street. He died in an ambulance on the way to City Hospital. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

A letter in his pocket was addressed to Miss Annie Miner of Hollywood, Cal., and told her he had been ill. Several canceled checks of the Miner Realty Co., drawn on the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., led police to refer to the bank. A clerk there with whom Miner had dealings, identified the body. "Miner had been staying at the Melbourne Hotel."

BYRD AND SHIP CAPTAIN CONFER ON ICE CONDITIONS

Whaler Bearing Antarctic Explorer Is Far Out on Pacific on Way to New Zealand.

By RUSSELL OWEN.
(Copyright 1929, by the New York Times
Co. and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
World Rights Reserved.)

ABOARD THE WHALER A. C. LarSEN, Oct. 16 (Via Radio).— Commander Richard E. Byrd and his 14 companions are rolling over the blue Pacific, taking stock of their position after the scramble to get away from the United States.
The first two days out a stiff breeze made even the big Larsen roll, and some of the party were sick, but now will have their sea legs and are enjoying a brief interval of peace.

Word from the other ships of the expedition shows them also steadily moving toward New Zealand, so that the expedition takes on the aspect of a military concentration,
and realization of its complexity grows.

Here is the Larsen, three weeks
from New Zealand; far to the southeast about half way between Panama and Pitcairn Land is the bark, City of New York, with the whaler Ross, carrying the expedi-tion's dogs. Still farther south, off Galapagos, is the Bolling—all headed toward ports in New Zealand,
where the final assembly of materials will be made.

Fortunately, they all started soon enough so that time will be available for necessary rearrange-ments, as the ice will prevent them from reaching the Bay of Whales
before Jan. 15 except by unusual luck.

Commander Byrd has been busy checking lists of supplies and forming plans to get the stuff to the barrier. He also has been confering with Capt. Nilsen regarding ice conditions in Ross sea.

"The mechanics have been working over the planes and reboxing them. Salmaker Roenne is busy turning out parkas."

Nearly every day there are conferences between Commander Byrd and his companions regarding flying plans.

Reading and playing games,
washing and drying the clothes
with the wireless takes up the rest of the time, but the most popular game, has been held up because lagoon. Commander Byrd's dog, swallowed the dice. He chews anything, even bolts. He is the hungriest person on the boat except Bernt Balchen and Dean Smith.

The two supply ships of the Byrd Antarctic expedition reported their position as follows: Noon,
Oct. 14, Eleanor Bolling—Latitude
3.17 north, longitude 97.37 west, this being about 18 miles north of Galapagos.

Noon, Oct. 14—City of New York, latitude 3.33 south, longitude 116.54 west, this being about 1500
miles east of the Marquesas Islands.

INDICTED OFFICER GIVES BOND

Kirkwood Chief of Police Denies Patrolman Beat Prisoner.
"Patrolman Alexander Lewis, 35 years old, of the Kirkwood Police Department, surrendered at Clayton yesterday on an indictment charging common assault, which was returned by the grand jury on the statement of Bernard Ash,
who charged that Lewis beat him
with a rubber hose and a billy after arresting him, Sept. 29, for questioning."

Lewis, who resides at 318 1/2 South
Clay avenue, Kirkwood, was released on $1000 bond and returned to duty. Chief of Police O'Donnell of the Kirkwood force denied that Ash was beaten, declaring that the officer merely slapped the prisoner when he resisted.

Mrs. Smith Pleased Over St. Louis Demonstration

Wife of Candidate Calm Through Everything and Unwearied After Long Parade Over City and East Side.

By Marguerite Martyn.

THE rousing greeting St.
Louis gave Gov. Smith and his party, after all the hustle and bustle of the whirlwind spin
through the city, the incessant shrieks of police sirens in their ears, the stifling, blackening fumes
of motorcycle exhausts, the heat
and humidity, the crush and jam
through which the visitors and escort had to squeeze their way when finally they alighted, it was an exhausted party which arrived at the Hotel Coronado. All except
Mrs. Smith. If she was exhausted,
she wouldn't admit it. And successfully she maintained that attitude.

They were taken to the Queen
Marie suite on the fourteenth floor,
from which all but the immediate family of the candidate were excluded. They were drenched with perspiration, were tired, and wanted a few minutes for showers and a snack of refreshment, and were being carefully guarded from intrusion for a time. Then personal friends and influential Democrats began percolating through the formidable ramparts of secret service men and finally I gained the fourteenth floor and an anteroom to the official suite. Mrs.
Charles Dana Gibson, wife of the artist, the original Gibson Girl, herself, came in. A stunning woman still, though she told me
she had just had her husband on long distance phone to inquire if a momentarily expected new grandchild had arrived.

"Mrs. Smith Keeps Calm."
I have known the Smiths intimately for 14 years," she said,
"and if there is anything you want to know about the candidate's wife,
I can tell you. Of course you know
she is very domestic in her taste.
And the surprising thing is that all this glare of publicity hasn't changed her habits of life in the least. She refuses to become excited over the campaign. The rest of us get all wrought up over enemy propaganda, but never can we get her to voice a word of criticism of anybody. Such is her kindness of heart."

"And then she has such infinite patience. Never have we seen her the least bit impatient during the whole trip. When there comes a moment of privacy she takes up her tapestry and stitches. Whereas," added Mrs. Gibson, "I get so keyed up by it all, I think when it's all over I shall have to start some kind of a campaign of my own."

Mrs. Gibson is a sister of Lady Astor. M. P., who is now on a visit to her old home in Virginia, and I expressed the hope that we might get some expression from her on behalf of the Democratic cause.

"She is just as democratic as ever," responded Mrs. Gibson, "but she must be very discreet. This much I can say, that about temperance worker that she is, she is not a prohibitionist. If our present state of affairs is prohibition."

Daughter a Campaign Veteran.
Emily Warner, the candidate's eldest daughter, came in. Two months of campaigning have made her a veteran. She is not interview shy. Some excuse was made for the nonappearance of Catherine Quillman, her younger sister.

"Tell what Catherine told the reporters in Louisville," urged Mrs.
Gibson.

"She was having her first experience at being interviewed," said Mrs. Warner, "and they asked her if she was looking forward with great anticipation to residing in the White House. Well, I don't know,"
she said. "You see, I have a new apartment of my own all fixed just the way I want it. I don't know what could be better than that."
That's just the kind of a girl she is."

The half hour to be spent at the hotel had now elapsed. It was indeed past time to leave for the train when I was called to the other end of the hall to meet Mrs.
Smith. A small woman she seemed as she looked up at me with large clear blue eyes. All the lines of her face turned up in a smile. All around was bustle and confusion,
for by this time the rooms and corridor were crowded. But she seemed placid enough.

Pleased at Reception.
"It was a wonderful demonstration," she was saying. "All the people seemed so enthusiastic. And all those flowers! They were beautiful. No, I am not tired. I never get tired. You have a lovely city.
I was here once before, earlier in the summer on our way from Houston, and I had a lovely drive."

"Wouldn't it be nice if you could just settle down here in the Queen Marie suite and spend a quiet evening and a restful night before encountering the crowds at Sedalia?" I suggested.

"Yes, they have been kindly suggesting that we do that," she responded. "But it wouldn't do at all." Her face became at once sober and quite positive. "It would upset our schedule."

"Catherine, Emily, Albert," she summoned her children and gave an anxious glance toward the group which surrounded her husband. They all came flocking about her. And again she smiled, the happiest smile. A happy looking wife and mother. What better testimony can a woman offer of a good husband?

BELLEVILLE MAN LOSES SUIT OVER ARMY TANK

Supreme Court Dismisses $10-000,000 Claim of Charles Paridy to Invention.

The gilded dreams of Charles Paridy, 65-year-old Belleville inventor and shoe-worker, and of hundreds of men and women who backed him to the extent of $75-000 received another and possibly final jolt yesterday when the Supreme Court of the United States refused to determine whether he is the original inventor of the caterpillar tractor that was used in the World War.

Last Jan. 10, Paridy lost his $10,000,000 suit against the Holt
Co. of Peoria, Ill., manufacturers of 2000 army tanks used during the war. For years, the gray-haired shoe-worker, living in a furnished room on Charles street
in Belleville, had predicted that millions would be paid him when the Government recognized the priority of his claim to the "endless track" device and saw him
granted his rights.

He collected small amounts from hundreds in East St. Louis, Belleville, and smaller communities throughout St. Clair County, giving each a receipt, on which was marked: "To be repaid at the rate of $100 for $1."

In his attempt to have a United States tribunal establish his priority as the tank inventor, Paridy took the issue to the Supreme Court. A favorable decision would undoubtedly have paved the way
for reopening his $10,000,000 claim.
But the Supreme Court has dismissed his case, accepting the report of the Special Master in the Paridy suit before the Court of Claims.

Paridy contended that Federal Judge Fitzherry, before whom the case was to be tried at Peoria, Ill., was disqualified to sit, and challenged the right of Carl M. Behrman to act as special master.

Judge Page, who tried the case,
ruled that the special master was not disqualified and when Paridy failed to show cause why the special master's report and findings
should not be adopted, the case was dismissed. Paridy contended that Judge Page should have tried the case anew without regard to the findings made by the master.

Paridy says he invented the caterpillar tractor in 1896. But he failed to patent it until 1912. His claim was in litigation for years in the Court of Claims. He lived frugally in a back room, and refused the offers of investors to move him to better quarters. He said that when he won his claim
—and he was confident that some day the Government would recognize that his patent was first in the field—he would keep only $1-000,000, turning over the other $9,000,000 to his backers. Yesterday's decision, however, exhausted
Paridy's sources of appeal.

CONDEMNNS USE OF ELECTRICITY IN COLLEGE INITIATIONS

Texas Grand Jury Closes Without Criminal Action Inquiry Into Fraternity Fatality.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 15.—The Travis County grand jury today condemned the use of electricity in any form in fraternity initiations,
after an investigation into the death of Nolte McElroy, 19 years old, of Houston, in a Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity initiation at Texas University, Sept. 30.

McElroy received a fatal shock in crawling between two pairs of bed springs charged from a house light wire. Many initiates had gone through the same "test" before without harm.

In its report, which closed the case without criminal action, the grand jury declared that in the use of electricity in initiation stunts
there is "an ever-present danger to the subjects, due either to change of conditions in the electric current or to the physical condition of the subject."

On Protective Tariff, Citing Increase of Foreign Trade

Declares for Continued Government Operation of Merchant Marine Until Private Enterprise Can Take Over Lines Profitably.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Following is the text of Herbert Hoover's address here last night:

Economic questions have, over the past 50 years, grown to a larger and larger proportion of our national issues. Today, these questions are more dominant than ever. Upon their sound solution depends our prosperity, our standards of living and the opportunities for a fuller life to every home. I make no apologies, therefore, for speaking to you tonight on economic questions which are affected by the tariff and our foreign trade, including our merchant marine. Obviously the policies of our Government bear the most important relationship to the maintenance and expansion of foreign trade, and the Government is the sole origin of the tariff.

I have been told that traditionally these subjects are of less interest to the women of our country than to the men. This I do not believe. Not alone are women today a large part of the army of industry, but they are also the treasurers of the household and the security of the family income is to them of primary concern.

There are no more important questions to the people of New England than this. Nature has given you no coal mines, no oil wells, no vast expanses of prairie—in fact no great possessions of raw materials. Your transportation relations both inland and overseas do not present to you the economic opportunity for basic raw material industries.

But New England has something even more important than all this. It has from the very beginnings of our history, provided industrial and commercial leadership and skilled workmen to the United States. The courage, genius and lofty integrity of that leadership has for 200 years carried New England through a score of those inevitable crises that come from invention, from change in demand.

Dependence Upon Tariff.

New England began with a shipping industry as her dominant commercial occupation. She succeeded in it because she built better ships, because she was more skillful in ship construction and because she developed greater skill in operation. She spread her ships over all the seas. She was the first part of our country to develop the factory system. She trained the first skilled workers, effected the first machinery and set up the first equipment of modern industry. Her people have developed not only a great industry and commerce but a great inheritance of method and skill. It is not simply a great past, it is a great present.

Today with her reservoir of skilled craftsmanship, of able technologists and administrators, with her own capital, with access to the markets of our own country and to the world, New England is and will continue to be over many generations to come, the great American center for production of those articles where we require quality rather than quantity. But the very nature of her location, the character of her industry and her resources make New England on one hand dependent upon the tariff to protect certain of her industries in the American market, and on the other hand dependent upon the development of foreign trade to find world markets for others.

Importance of Foreign Trade.

And today the whole nation has more profound reasons for solicitude in the promotion of our foreign trade than ever before. As the result of our inventive genius and the pressures of high wages, we have led the world in substituting machines for hand labor. This, together with able leadership and skilled workers, enabling us to produce goods much in excess of our own needs. Taking together our agriculture and our manufacturers and our mines, we have increased our production approximately 30 per cent during the last eight years, while our population has increased only about 10 per cent. Much of this increase of production has been absorbed in higher standards of living, but the surplus grows with this unceasing improvement. To insure continuous employment and maintain our wages, we must find a profitable market for these surpluses.

Not is this the reason for lending high importance to our foreign trade either for New England or the country as a whole. Our business ideal must be stability—that is, regularity of production and regularity of employment. We attain stability in production, whether it be in the individual factory or in the whole industry, or whether it is in the nation at large, by the number of different customers we supply. The shock of decreased demand from a single customer can be absorbed by the increase from another, if distribution be diffused. Consequently our industries will gain in stability the wider we spread our trade with foreign countries. This additional security reflects itself of goods in the world. Our exports show on a quantitative basis an increase of 58 per cent over pre-war levels, while our imports are 50 per cent above pre-war. The other combatant nations are only now barely recovering their pre-war basis. All this has a very human interpretation. Our total volume of exports translates itself into employment for 2,400,000 families, while its increase in the last seven years has interpreted itself into livelihood for 500,000 additional families in the United States. And in addition to this, millions more families find employment in the manufacture of imported raw materials. The farmer has a better market for his produce by reason of their employment.

Nor has New England failed to participate fully in this great advance.

Requests for Service.

With perhaps pardonable pride I may point out some indication of the assistance which the Government has given to this great expansion of our export trade through searching out opportunity for American goods abroad. I know of no better index of what the Federal Government's contribution has been in this enormous growth than the number of requests which come constantly to the Department of Commerce from our manufacturers and exporters for assistance and service of one kind or another. During the year before we undertook this broad plan of co-operation, the Government, at its various offices over the world, received less than 700 such requests per day. These demands have increased steadily until this last fiscal year they exceeded the enormous total of 10,000 daily. Unless these services to individual manufacturers and exporters were bringing positive results in dollars and cents, this phenomenal growth.

Foreign Monopolies.

Nor is the Government solely concerned with the sale of our products abroad. We are deeply interested in many ways in our imports. One of the most intricate questions has been to secure the supply of raw materials, of raw materials which we do not produce. Beginning soon after the war, certain foreign governments, possessing practical monopoly of such materials, began the organization of controls designed to establish prices to the rest of the world, and especially to us, the largest purchaser. These controls increased in number until they embraced nearly one-third of our imports and the undue tax upon our consumers reached hundreds of millions of dollars. We regarded such controls to be in the long run uneconomic and disastrous to the interests of both producer and consumer. We, however, felt we had no complaint except in our own methods and consequent unfair prices to our people. We wish to pay fair prices for what we buy, just as we wish to secure a fair price for what we sell. It was necessary for us to demonstrate that the consumer has inherent rights. Our Government used its influence to assist American industry to meet this situation, by encouraging the use of substitutes and synthetic products, and by recommending public conservation at times of absolute necessity. Happily the trends in the creation and management of these monopolies have reversed itself, and I believe this question will present no further difficulty.

Protection of Citizens Abroad.

The Government bears other direct responsibilities in promoting and safeguarding our foreign trade. It can prosper only under sound financial policies of our Government. It can prosper only under improved efficiency of our industry. In fact, the march of all progress, whether it be education or decrease in taxes, foreign trade thrives only in peace. But more than that, it thrives only with maintained good-will and mutual interest with other nations.

One of the chief interests lies in the protection of American citizens and their property abroad, and the protection of foreign citizens on our borders. The world's trading operations are by necessity largely carried on through the agency of their own citizens, so that in the pursuit of foreign trade, we have an exchange of citizens as well as of goods. Furthermore, our citizens who go abroad to develop foreign countries, or our citizens who loan their savings to develop foreign countries, are contributing to the advancement of trade. But they do much more. They build up the standards of living and the prosperity in other countries. Unless it can be constantly evidenced amongst all nations that the lives and property of all citizens abroad shall be protected, the foreign trade and the economic life of the world will degenerate instead of thrive. This does not mean that our citizens going abroad are not subject to the laws of the country where they reside. They must be subject to such laws unless these laws are a violation of international obligation. This implies no imperialism. It is the simple recognition of the principle of equity and mutual interest among all nations. Confidence in this principle is a necessity to the advancement of civilization itself.

Fortunately, the occasions where it has been necessary to send armed forces to preserve this principle are diminishing. Aside from the Great War the Democratic administration found it necessary to take such action on nine occasions, while during this administration only four such incidents have arisen. Every American must hope that they will not arise again.

Meeting of Competition.

Government co-operation in promoting foreign trade is even more important for the future than it has been for the past. It is more important to New England than it has ever been before. With the assurance of peace for many years to come, the world is upon the threshold of great commercial expansion. The other great nations of the world have been slowly recovering from the war. They have attained a very large degree of economic stability. They are developing increased efficiency in production and distribution and promotion of trade. Almost every month brings some deputation from abroad to study our methods and processes which they soon translate into their own use. We do not begrudge them all of our technical and other information. We search with equal diligence to translate their methods of progress to our own use. We have the intelligent self-interest to realize that it is in their prosperity and progress of the world as a whole that we must seek expansion in our foreign trade. Nevertheless, as the stability of foreign nations becomes greater and their methods improve the competition for natural markets will become sharper. To receive our due share of prosperity in these markets we must continue an increasing vigorous competition from our Government.

The Protective Tariff.

One of the most important economic issues of this campaign is the protective tariff. The Republican party has for 70 years supported a tariff designed to give adequate protection to American labor, American industry and the American farm against foreign competition.

Our opponents, after 70 years of continuous opposition to this Republican doctrine, now seek to convince the American people that they have nothing to fear from tariff revision at their hands. The Democratic platform states that they will revise the duties to a basis of "effective competition." They did this once before. When the Underwood tariff bill was introduced to Congress in 1913, the Democratic Ways and Means Committee of the House presented it to the country as a "competitive tariff." That measure was surely not a protective tariff. It greatly reduced the tariffs on American manufactures and it removed almost the whole protection of the agricultural industry. The competition which it provided was a competition with foreign wages and standards of living. The Democratic tariff was subjected to test for only a few months prior to the outbreak of the war. Those few months showed the beginnings of disaster in both industry and agriculture. The production of goods abroad competing with our goods ceased during the war and tariff rates became relatively unimportant. It was not until peace was restored that its ill effects were completely disclosed to the American people. It would seem fair to assume from the declarations of the authors of the measure at the time the Underwood bill was passed, that it was the ideal of an "effective competitive" tariff. Be this as it may, competition, to be effective, must mean that our own goods will have opportunity of successfully invading our home markets.

Efficiency of G. O. P. Duties.

The effect of the formula there set forth means a reduction of the tariff and a depression in American wages and American farm prices to meet foreign competition. It means a flood of foreign goods, of foreign farm produce, with the consequent reduction of wages and income of not only workers and farmers, but the whole of those who labor, whether in the field, the bench or the desk. The Republican party stands for protection and on coming into power in 1922 it enacted again a protective tariff both to agriculture and industry.

Every argument urged by our opponents against the increased duties in the Republican tariff act has been refuted by actual experience. It was contended that our costs of production would increase. Their prophecy was wrong, for our costs have decreased. They urged that the duties which we proposed would increase the price of manufactured goods—yet prices have steadily decreased. It was urged that by removing the pressure of competition of foreign goods, our industry would fall in efficiency. The answer to that is found in our vastly increased production per man in every branch of industry, which, indeed, is the envy of our competitors. They asserted that the enactment of the tariff would reduce the volume of our imports. Yet during the last seven years our total imports, particularly of goods of which we do not ourselves produce, have greatly increased. They predicted that with decreasing imports it would follow that our sales of goods abroad would likewise decrease. Again they were wrong. Our exports have increased to unprecedented totals. In fact, every single argument put forth by our opponents against us at that time has proved to be fallacious.

Derides Smith's Idea.

The tariff written by the Republican party in 1922 has been accompanied by everything which our opponents predicted that the tariff would prevent. It has been accompanied by employment and prosperity.

The Tariff Commission is a most valuable arm of the Government. It can be strengthened and made more useful in several ways. But the American people will never consent to delegating authority whether nonpartisan or bipartisan. Our people have a right to express themselves at the ballot box on a single question as this. There is only one commission to which delegation of that authority can be made. That is the great commission of their own choosing, the Congress of the United States and the President. It is the only commission which can be held responsible to the electorate. Those who believe in the protective tariff will, I am sure, wish to leave its revision in the hands of that party which has been devoted to establishment and maintenance of that principle for 70 years.

New England Conditions.

No tariff act is perfect. With the shifting of economic tides, some items may be higher than necessary, but undoubtedly some are too low. This is particularly true so far as New England is concerned. New England has many protected industries. One important branch of them, the cotton and wool industries, has not for the past few years been in a satisfactory condition. They comprise about 26 per cent of New England's industrial life. Their depressed condition has not been peculiar to New England. The same situation has prevailed throughout the world and is due largely to the same factors—style changes, production in new areas and decided changes in the trends of consumption. There has been less hardship in the United States than abroad, and that fact has been due to the partial protection afforded in the tariff against inundations of foreign goods.

Warns Against Change.

Any change in the present policy of production would, without question, result in a flood of foreign textile products which would mean no less than ruin to New England industry, both manufacturers and workmen.

That our American textile industry and its workers need solid protection is clearly demonstrated by a comparison of wages, and it must be remembered that our most severe competition from abroad always comes in those types of cloths in which the element of labor represents the chief item of cost. A woolen and worsted weaver in the United States earns an average of 65 cents an hour, in Great Britain 30 cents, in Germany 20 cents, in France 13 cents and in Italy 8 cents. The American cotton weaver earns an average of 40 cents an hour, the German 17 cents, the Frenchman less than 11, and the Italian 7 cents an hour. And New England wages are higher than these averages for the whole country.

The American protective tariff is the only insurance to our 600,000 families who earn their livelihood in the cotton and wool manufacturing industries, against the wages prevalent abroad and the conditions and standards of living which necessarily result from them.

The prospects for the textile industry are today much more favorable than for sometime past. Both the world situation and domestic situation are improving. I believe these industries have turned the corner. And there are omens of much broader significance which sustain me in my beliefs. As never before in the industry there is demonstrated a will to pool its best brain resources in the solution of present and future problems in order that there shall be mutuality of benefit to manufacturer, worker and consumer. Elimination of waste in production and distribution are in progress. Security and steady employment are more assured than for a long time past.

The Tariff and Expansion.

During this campaign some of our opponents have asserted that it is inconsistent to support the protective tariff and at the same time expect a greater expansion of our foreign trade. Their presentation of this theory at least indicates that some of them have not departed from their long-held trade theories.

Their theory is that, if by a tariff wall against competitive goods we reduce the sales of goods to us from foreign countries, we thereby diminish the resources of those foreign countries with which our sales abroad are decreased. It is still further asserted that if we by the tariff reduce the shipment of goods into our markets, we diminish the ability of foreign countries to pay the principal and interest on the debts which they owe us. This theory was sound enough in the old days of direct barter of goods between nations. The trouble with it is that it has lost most of its practical application in a modern world and especially as applied to the American situation. Economic theories and hypotheses must stand the test of fact or experience or show application to new circumstances. Responsible men cannot daily with critical policies which affect the wellbeing of peoples, on the sole basis of a theory. The birth of modern science was the realization by the scientists that every theory and every hypothesis must be placed upon the scales where the weights were in quantities, not arguments.

Modern World Trade.

One primary fault of this economic theory is that foreign trade is no longer a direct barter between the single nation and another. World trade has become more of the nature of a common pool into which all nations pour goods as credit and from which they retake goods and credit. Let me give you an example: We ship more goods to Great Britain than we receive from her, but we buy vast quantities of tropical goods and she in turn supplies the tropical countries with her manufactures. In this way the settlement of international balances and obligations is lifted entirely out of the category of direct barter.

The first answer, however, to this theory is that 65 per cent of our $4,155,000,000 of annual imports are admitted free of duties because they are raw materials, tropical products and other articles which we do not ourselves produce. Of the remainder, from 6 per cent to 7 per cent are luxuries upon which duties are levied for revenue and which are bought by our people irrespective of price. The purchasing power of foreign currencies is certainly undiminished to the extent of this 70 per cent.

A further answer is that 30 per cent, or $1,250,000,000 of imports, came in over the tariff wall and paid duties to the useful revenues of the Government of about $470,000,000. The purchasing power for our goods was undiminished by this amount.

"Invisibles" of Foreign Trade.

A still further answer to this theory opposed to the protective tariff is the enormous increase of what are usually called the "invisibles" of foreign trade. That is the expenditures for freights, for insurance, by tourists, by immigrant remittances, for interest and a hundred other items. Some years ago, believing that these transactions were of vastly more importance in the determination of our national policies than had been credited to them, I instituted an annual determination of the facts. These determinations show that foreign nations now receive from us about $2,000,000,000 per annum for services, including such items as $770,000,000 paid out to foreign countries by our tourists and $24,000,000 remitted by immigrants in our country to relatives abroad. This sum of two billions can be applied by foreigners to the purchase of goods or to payments on debts or for services in the United States, just the same money which they receive from the sale of goods to us. If we add this two billions to the $4,155,000,000 of goods they sell us, it makes their purchasing power over six billions, so that the proportion of the foreigners' buying power which is affected by the protective tariff diminishes to even a smaller ratio.

Cites Increased Business.

Still another answer is that the volume of imports is in fact determined by the degree of prosperity of nations. Our domestic prosperity has been greatly increased by the building up of wages and standards of living, to which the protective tariff has greatly contributed. By the very result of the tariff we have been able vastly to increase our imports of luxuries, raw materials and things we do not produce. With our domestic prosperity we require more raw material and by that same prosperity we have the resources with which to buy them. By our prosperity we have been able to go abroad as tourists, and also to remit to our relatives in Europe. This, I believe, finally extinguishes the already depleted importance of this theory that our tariff seriously damages the buying power of foreign countries and thus diminishes our export trade.

But if any more answers are needed to this theory, there is that of actual practical experience. I have already observed that we have increased our imports during the last seven and a half years under the present tariff act by over $1,675,000,000 annually, or to an amount at least 50 per cent above prewar average after allowing for the higher prices. The exports of five leading manufacturing nations of Europe to the United States have increased 75 per cent since 1913, whereas the sales of these same nations to the rest of the world have only increased 27 per cent. Certainly that does not indicate any great destruction of their ability to sell us something, despite our tariff. In short, there is no practical force in the contention that we cannot have a protective tariff and a growing foreign trade. We have both today.

Foreign Loans.

I spoke a few minutes ago of loans which our citizens make to foreign countries. It is an essential part of the sound expansion of our foreign trade, that we should interest ourselves in the development of backward or underdeveloped countries by means of loans and our surplus capital. They are blessings both to the lender and the borrower. When we make a loan abroad, the amount of the loan is not ordinarily exported to gold, but in goods or services either directly or indirectly. Most of them find their way out of our country in the form of farm products, machinery, plant equipment and supplies purchased of us. We receive the first benefit in market for our farmers and for the making of these goods, and that gives additional employment to our people. The borrower receives a second benefit because the installation of American machinery and equipment, whether it be mill power plants, harvesting machinery or typewriters, brings greater productivity to the receiving country. Its prosperity is thus increased and the whole world trade benefits. Some of this new industrialization abroad may result in national competition with America, and there in our export trade, but the broad general results of such betterment are as I have stated them. If foreign loans are applied to constructive development in foreign lands and if they are provided from capital here, in which we require for our needs, then they are necessarily beneficial.

War Debts.

Two assertions have been made in connection with our war debts and foreign trade that merit a word. The first is the one I referred to before, that tariff prevents the import of goods necessary to repay interest and principal on these loans; the second is that these payments must be withheld.

No need to endure aching, burning feet

This correctly built shoe has brought relief to thousands of foot sufferers

DOES it pay to put up with aching feet? Can you be happy when your feet hurt you? No enjoyment in dancing. No pleasure in shopping trips. And every day foot troubles become more painful, more annoying.

What you need is Ground Grippers—the shoes that have brought relief in thousands of cases, many seemingly hopeless. In them is comfort for aching feet, rest for tired feet, freedom for cramped feet.

Twenty-five years of scientific shoe designing go into the construction of every Ground Gripper. This shoe is orthopedically correct. Doctors endorse it. It relieves and corrects foot troubles. It makes foot pains as needless as they are annoying.

Only Ground Grippers combine the following vital principles of the correctly built shoe:

1. The Flexible Arch, which allows the foot muscles to exercise and thus strengthen themselves with every step. This flexibility makes the shoe close-fitting and comfortable, easing the foot while assisting the arch to absorb the shocks of walking.
2. The Straight Inner Line, permitting the toes to function with a free, strong, gripping action.
3. The Patented Rotor Heel, which helps you to step straight ahead, the normal, natural way.

Back of every pair of Ground Grippers are twenty-five years of promises fulfilled. Back of every Ground Gripper claim are the testimonials of thousands of satisfied wearers.

Try Ground Grippers today. Notice how they ease your feet. How foot troubles disappear and vanish.

At the nearest Ground Gripper store is a man who will understand your feet and your shoe problems. Give him the chance to help you.

The Ground Gripper Flexible Arch allows the foot muscles to exercise, thus strengthening themselves with every step.

Text of Hoover's Speech On Tariff at Boston

mately made in goods and that these goods will some day replace the output of our factories and reduce the employment of our workmen. This latter argument has been vigorously put forward as a reason for canceling our war debts, I deny its practical validity.

The whole of the weights which I have applied to the tariff that the protective tariff runs our export trade applies equally to this matter. As I have said, the tariff can affect but a small percentage of the buying power of foreign countries. In the end it probably increases imports, because by increasing our domestic prosperity it enables us to buy far more goods of the raw material, tropical and luxury type. All the facts I have stated, showing the increased buying power of foreign countries, apply equally to their ability to pay loans and interest. The $350,000,000 annually due us upon war debt settlements represents today less than 5 per cent of the total annual buying power of foreign countries for our goods and other purposes. Of this 5 per cent, four-fifths would be paid through invisibles as duty-free goods and only 1 per cent, at the largest computation, is competitive goods. A hard, practical fact enters here also, which is that their buying power from us is constantly increasing. The fact is the increase in our tourist expenditure alone in Europe since the war would enable them to take care of the entire amount of our annual payments on these debts. The increase alone in our imported goods since 1922 would pay the whole amount three times over. And the polyangular course of trade which I have mentioned does not require that these transactions be direct with any nation.

Gives Credit to Coolidge.
While I am on this subject of our war debt, I should like to call attention to another current misrepresentation. This is the statement that we made a profit from the World War, and that these debts were wrung from the blood of other countries. This is absolutely untrue. While certain individuals may have profited, as a whole this country was a great loser by the war. We emerged from it with the loss of life of our sons, with the depleted health of others, with a huge debt, increased taxes, inflated currency, inflated agriculture, useless factories, with a shortage of housing and other facilities for the very basis of living, with suspended public works and inadequate communications, demoralized railways and countless other national losses which will continue for a generation.

The increase in wealth and prosperity to the United States has come since the war—not during that time. It is due to the hard-working character and increasing efficiency of our people and to sound Government policies. And in the largest measure the adoption and application of these policies were due to that great son of New England, Calvin Coolidge.

This great prosperity, this great increase in wealth has been one of the greatest blessings that has ever come to the world. It has enabled us from our reservoir of wealth to contribute the force of our capital to the reconstruction of the war-torn countries. But for our aid, South America and many other parts of the world would have been compelled to suspend their development and expansion for lack of capital. Had it not been for the industry and genius of the American people in the last seven years, recovery of the world would have been delayed a quarter of a century.

Merchant Marine.
A merchant marine under the American flag is an essential to our foreign trade. It is essential to our defense.

There is only one protection of our commerce from discrimination and combinations in rates which would impose onerous charges upon us in the transportation of our goods to foreign markets—that is, a merchant marine under the control of our citizens.

We have had need to revise our vision upon overseas transportation during the past few years. It no longer comprises large numbers of tramp steamers going hither and yon. From the point of view of our commerce, it consists of about 25 important sea routes which are the extension to foreign destinations of our inland trade routes, upon which we need regular ferry-like service of large cargo liner ships. This development of large units and repetitive operation fits with the character of our industrial development and opens wide hope for our return to the sea.

We have endeavored for two generations to find methods for restoration of that prestige on the ocean which New England at one time gave to us. During late years we have tried Government ownership and operation. No one can claim that Government operation gives promise of either efficiency or permanence. But by Government operation we have maintained our independence and our defense in the meantime. By it we have been able to pioneer the trade routes and to build up a substantial flow of goods. Thus far it has been successful, but at heavy cost. As these routes have gained in strength, many of them have been disposed of to successful operation by private enterprise. With the legislation passed by the last Congress through which a number of indirect aids are given to the merchant marine, there is real hope that the Government will ultimately be able to retire from its competition with its own citizens in the shipping business, but it can not retire until we are sure that private enterprise can carry the burden and grow in strength. It is a certainty that Government operation will always be unsatisfactory. The Government can not operate cheaply; it cannot rid itself of pernicious bureaucracy and politics; it can not avoid the interminable difficulties and wastes which come from this kind of organization and direct or indirect political pressures. The hope of a substantial merchant marine lies ultimately in the new character of overseas shipping, in the energy and initiative of our citizens with assistance and co-operation of the Government. That assistance and co-operation is now being given and must be continued.

Importance to Individual.

Now let me sum up the thought I should like to leave with you. I have talked to you about the tariff, about international trade, the merchant marine and other economic forces which may, at first glance, seem far removed from our daily lives. I have tried to make the point that these subjects are no longer remote from any one of you. The time may have been, as some one once said, when the tariff was a local issue of foreign trade and shipping concerned only the local seaports, it is no longer. Touch the tariff on textiles, and North Carolina feels the blighting influence as quickly as Massachusetts. Nor does it stop there. The farmer finds a diminished market in the lessened demand caused by lower wages. Unsettled the credit structure, and it is not Wall Street that suffers most; it is the little bank, the little factory, the little farm, the modest home. A shortage of shipping to the gulf ports at once decreases prices to the farmer in Kansas, for he must take more expensive routes to foreign markets. The old local decline issues are largely gone. The present issues are the well-being and comfort and security of the American family and the American home. On that issue my party presents, as proof of its capacity, the record of growing comfort and security of the past seven years.

I could not, as a Californian, conclude without a tribute to the large part which New England men have played in the advancement of my State. They pioneered its first commerce. A Boston man, Thomas O. Larkin, was one of the first American consuls in Mexican California, and, in large part, to his ability and courage was due the peaceful annexation of my State. It was Daniel Webster who moved California's admission to the Union. It was New England men who established our school system and our universities. Today the sons of New England are among the leaders in our public affairs.

Higher Things of Life.
Here in New England, American business began, and because the prosperity of industry and commerce affects the life of every man and woman, every boy and girl, I have dealt with it in this address. But there are other things more important. Because I talk of business, it does not mean that I place material things above spiritual things. On the contrary, I see prosperity merely as the rich soil from which spiritual virtues as well as education and art and satisfaction in life can grow.

Your founders came to these shores not through lure of gold, not with the ambition to establish great mercantile enterprises, not with the thirst for adventure. Their first objectives were far different and more lofty.

When the necessities of life and of the spirit had been attended to, their first great desire was to advance learning and perpetuate it for posterity. Out of that lofty ambition came the creation of a score of institutions of higher learning. Later the same spirit inspired the establishment of other colleges in order that women might share equally with men in the opportunities of higher education. And from these institutions went forth the men and women who dotted our Western country with colleges and universities which have now become great, and who carried a love of learning that has led our Central and Western states to endow their public schools and universities not literally with hundreds of millions.

Example of New England.
New England taught us the ways of business. But you give us something far finer and more precious. You sent us men and women on fire with passion for truth and service. You set us the first example in patriotism. The early New Englanders cast their lot for liberty in words that can never die, when the people of Roxbury declared:

"Our pious fathers died with the pleasing hope that we, their children, should live free. Let none, as they will answer it another day, disturb the ashes of those heroes by selling their birthright."
These words did not spring from any consideration of material advantage. Those of our New England citizens who came in later times have caught that spirit and have carried it forward. It has spread its influence to all our country. As a Westerner I make grateful acknowledgement of our everlasting debt. Your example set the pattern for America's development.

Even in old Japan—

Where the loveliest ladies have golden skin—Elizabeth Arden's Venetian Toilet Preparations are as popular as in America. This is because of their exquisite formulas which are scientifically correct and uniformly excellent the world over. Natural loveliness of skin and contour is the certain result of using the Preparations which Miss Arden herself has created.

The Cleansing Cream reaches and purifies every tiny pore, leaving the skin soft and receptive. The Skin Tonic stimulates circulation, and imparts a zest and fineness. Velve Cream heals every roughness. Orange Skin Food nourishes underlying tissues and builds firm new cells. And for particularly relaxed and flabby muscles of face and throat there is Miss Arden's Special Astringent.

Hoover Presents Views On Tariff at Boston

tened to several other speakers and warmed itself up with applause for their eulogies of Republican doctrine. Calvin Coolidge, and Herbert Hoover, and their hits at the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Smith was not mentioned by name in any case. The crowd, however, understood that he was the target, and responded gleefully.

Massachusetts Speakers.
William M. Butler, former Republican national chairman, waxed heavily sarcastic in telling how the Republican candidate had conducted his campaign with "efficiency and dignity," and had "not tried to change and improve the platform."

Butler's cold and expressionless face—he has the coldest face in politics—and his ponderous manner were not calculated to arouse warmth in any crowd, but he did pretty well by bringing in Hoover and Coolidge and by playing heavily on the prosperity string.

Lieutenant Governor Frank G. Allen, the Republican candidate for Governor, was more of a spell-binder. "This," he shouted, "is a Republican State," and many in the crowd gave him "yea" in response. He, too, got applause with the name of the President. He then called the roll of some of the Republican great.

"The Republican party gave the country Lincoln," he said, and there was burst of cheering.

"It gave it McKinley," he continued, and the cheers were milder. "It gave it Roosevelt," the applause equalled that for Lincoln.

An anxious moment followed. Would he note that the party also contributed Warren G. Harding? He did not. He skipped right down to Calvin Coolidge—drew applause—and came to his climax.

"It now gives the country Herbert Hoover," he said.

"Doesn't Need a Wrecking Crew." B. Loring Young was next. He was in mid-flight when Hoover entered, and the crowd rose and applauded for two minutes, bits of cloth, handkerchief size, flatter-

and amazing RCA Radiola 60

It amazed even us after having watched the miraculous development of radio until we thought nothing could. RCA Radiola 60 is like a new, better method of radio reception. And that is what it is. BETTER, where others have been good. One big improvement is a power detector tube that takes the full volume built up by the Super-Heterodyne circuit and passes it along to the audio-amplifying circuit without distortion. Reproduction of full-toned clarity such as you never heard before. This is an 8-tube Super-Heterodyne equipped throughout with the powerful AC Radiotrons. A table model whose compact beauty will adapt itself to any room in the house. Operates from an AC electric light socket—no batteries.

SON ASSAILS BAKER AND HYDE ADMINISTRATIONS

Democratic Gubernatorial Nominee Makes First Attack of Campaign on Republican State Record.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 16.—Castle consideration of embar-assments which might be caused Democratic State Senators who
to the defense of the Republican State administration in last Legislature, and possibly to James M. Howell, chairman of Democratic State Committee.

Howell, Democratic candidate for Governor, today advances a scathing denunciation of the Baker and Hyde administrations.

It was virtually the first word of criticism of the two Republican governors heard during the campaign, the Democratic State organization and its speakers seeming to have decided to let the Republican claim of honest and efficient administration of the State
go unchallenged.

It had been the expectation that the State campaign the Democratic organization would lay particular stress on this Republican record, but as time went by and no move was started in that direction, the speculation began as to the reason.

It was attributed by some to Howell's years of close association with Ben C. Hyde and others in the administration of the State Insurance Department, which recently has been under heavy fire. By others it was concluded that the organization felt that the bolt of seven Democratic Senators under the leadership of Senator Casey in the last Legislature has prevented
the party from capitalizing the wrongs of the Baker administration.
It will be remembered that when a Senate committee after an investigation of the administration of the penitentiary by Dr. Cortez Enloe, then chairman of the prison
board, recommended that Enloe
be not confirmed, setting out many irregularities it held had been proven, seven Democrats refused to join in approving the report and Enloe received what amounted to official vindication.

Some of these Democrats have been rewarded by Gov. Baker.
However, Wilson, speaking today
at a special State meeting in advance of the Smith meeting tonight, scored the Republican record in language picturesquely. He called the roll of State departments under Baker and Hyde executive supervision and denounced them.

"Permeated With Rot," he said.
Reciting the Republican State platform declaration of complete approval of the entire record of the administrations of Hyde and Baker, Wilson said:

"Thus the Republican nominees stand upon and endorse these planks, and in the glaring light of the whole record of the administrations of Govs. Hyde and Baker,
ask, with unblinking frontality,
that the voters of Missouri likewise swallow at one gulp the whole nauseating mass of extravagance, inefficiency, mounting cost of Government out of all proportion to increase in wealth and population, inequitable, unjust and wrongful valuation for taxation purposes of farm lands and town
lots, and scandals connected with State institutions. But this the voters never will do.

"It is possible that no State in the Union has been so permeated with the rottenness of administrative decay as has Missouri during these administrations. The odious, slander-blotched flag has flown
over practically every State institution."

"Unspeakable Cruelties."
Wilson then took up the institutions and departments until he had covered almost the whole field. In part he said:

"They entered the penitentiary,
and with machinations and diabolical cunning converted a paying institution into an almost hopeless financial wreck. Instances connected with its management are appalling.

"They invaded the Reform School, removed a competent and praiseworthy and Democratic superintendent, against whom there was not even a whisper of criticism, and appointed in his place the editor of a Republican newspaper
whose fulsome laudation of Gov.
Hyde evidently secured him the position. The administration of this man sickens one with ghastly revelations of unspeakable cruelties, mismanagement and incompetency.
To such an extent has his reprehensible management
gone that some circuit judges refused to sentence boys to this institution. One of them declared that it has become a school of crime.

"The shuffling footsteps of the spoilsmen were heard in the offices of the Labor Commissioner and of the Food and Drug Department.
Two appointees of Gov. Hyde, whose political standing with Republicans was above question, inorder to make some money, concluded to get it through the back door of the Federal Government. (This was a reference to Heber Nations and Charles S. Prather, indicted for conspiracy to violate the Volstead act in the Griesedick beer scandal.)

"The Nevada Hospital for the Insane furnishes a concrete example of unworthiness, duplicity
and mismanagement bordering on criminality.

Insurance Scandals.
"The insurance department has contributed a full quota to the already heaping measure of sordid happenings. So recent the disclosures, they are fresh in the public mind as the most culpable transactions, which have ever shocked the conscience of our people.

"In 1922 when Gov. Baker was State Superintendent of Schools,
he loaned the power of the school system of Missouri to the power trust by supplying a list of high schools and their principals to one of the power trust representatives and wrote him a letter in which he said:

"Your plan for getting the material before the high schools
meets my approval and I am sure that the teachers will be glad to use the material."

"Since becoming Governor, Baker made a speech stating in substance that Missouri should have a course of study in utilities and that such course should be taught in our public schools. Our present State Department of Education, conducted under a Democrat,
ignored the Governor's suggestion
in this respect as it should have done."

The crowd was slow in arriving for today's rainy and inclement weather indicated it would fall far short of the 100,000 persons who had been expected. There were intermittent showers all yesterday afternoon and last night settling into a steady drizzle this morning. This had the effect of keeping away many who had intended driving to Sedalia. Special trains from Kansas City, St. Joseph, St. Louis, Moberly and other places were scheduled to arrive about noon.

Wilson spoke at the Livestock

pavilion in the State Fair Grounds, where Gov. Smith will speak tonight.

An extended address by Charles
M. Hay, nominee for the Senate, also was scheduled and other candidates also spoke.

ager of the A. Leschen & Son Rope Co., was elected president

the organization at the Forest

New Radiola Super-Heterodynes and new RCA Dynamic Speakers with AC electric operation

"Instruments of such amazing performance have never before been known in radio"

Report of the Testing Engineers

RCA RADIOLA 18

Most popular type Radiola ever built. It is entertaining a million listeners every night. A fine-designed receiver of broad range and capacity for simplified lighting-current operation. Wonderful tone fidelity. Illuminated tuning dial. Solid mahogany cabinet, walnut finished.

$95 (less Radiotrons).

RCA RADIOLA 64

De luxe cabinet model of the new RCA Super-Heterodyne, with the Improved RCA Dynamic Speaker. Incorporates new features never before used in broadcast receivers. Special new automatic volume control bringing in weak and strong stations at any desired even degree of volume. Amazing fidelity of reproduction hitherto unrealized in radio. Enclosed in a finely finished cabinet of rich design.

$550 (less Radiotrons).

RCA RADIOLA 62

Cabinet model of the new RCA Super-Heterodyne. The enclosed Dynamic Speaker is an improved model of the incomparable RCA reproducing instruments. Superior fidelity of reproduction over the entire musical range never before achieved in radio. Beautiful cabinet of walnut veneer with maple inlays, and ingeniously arranged doors.

$375 (less Radiotrons).

RCA RADIOLA 16

Designed to give the finest radio entertainment in homes not wired for electricity. Battery-operated. Receiver known for its wonderful performance and long life in thousands of homes all over the country.

$82.75 (with Radiotrons).

RCA LOUDSPEAKER 100A

Over three-quarters of a million of this type of RCA speaker are now in use. Their sturdy construction and uniformly fine performance have made them the most popular of all reproducers.

A REVOLUTION in radio design was effected a year ago by the introduction of the Radiola 17 (now the improved 18) type of A.C. electrically operated receivers. The new RCA alternating-current Radiotrons—permitting of easy, dependable and inexpensive operation direct from any house current outlet—opened a new era in popularizing radio for the millions.

The great majority of high-quality receivers offered by the leading manufacturers in the past year have been modeled after the famous "17" and improved "18," with its highly efficient tuned-radio-frequency circuit.

The Radio Corporation of America has now achieved another great advance in the use of the A.C. Radiotrons. The engineers have adapted them with remarkable results to the super-selective and sensitive Radiola Super-Heterodyne, for five years the unchallenged leader in radio set design.

The new "60" series of Radiola Super-Heterodynes—in the different models—embody all the improvements and refinements of radio design developed in the laboratories of RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse.

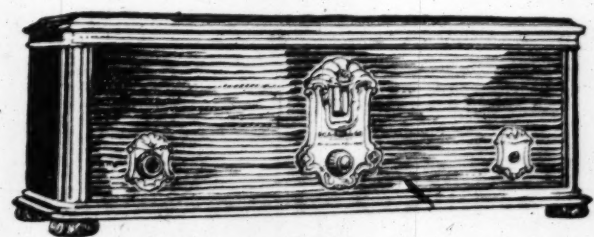

New RCA Dynamic Speakers, with fidelity of tone and breadth of musical range never before known in radio acoustics, are also included in the new line of RCA instruments. They reproduce, with amazing realism, everything from a whisper to the full volume of a great orchestra.

The new RCA cabinets have been selected by a special committee of artists and cabinet-makers. They are of beautiful design and finish.

The great manufacturing resources of the Radio Corporation of America and its associated companies make it possible to offer these wonderful instruments at prices that place them within reach of millions of American families.

Any RCA Radiola Dealer will gladly demonstrate one of the new Super-Heterodynes in your own home—and tell you how you may readily purchase it on the RCA Time Payment Plan.

PATTERSON SAYS G.O.P. HAS PURIFIED ITSELF

Senatorial Nominee Declares Election of Coolidge in 1924 Cleansed Party.

Because dishonest men "wormed their way" into the Republican party in the Harding administration it does not follow that the party is corrupt, Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican senatorial nominee, declared last night at the American Annex Hotel at the first annual meeting of the Republican Business and Professional Women's Club.

"Dishonesty is not a party matter," he said. "So far as those who were guilty of misconduct in office are concerned, they have been driven from public life and so far as what they tried to do is concerned, we have got back all that."

"Fall was indicted and acquitted but he is now under another indictment. Forbes was indicted and served a prison sentence, and Tom Miller, the alien property custodian, was also sentenced to the penitentiary."

"In the Teapot Dome scandal a judgment amounting to millions of dollars has been returned against E. L. Doheny. Because these men wormed their way into the party, however, there is no reason to believe that the party is corrupt. All that was thrust upon us in 1924 when Coolidge was elected."

Patterson declared the credit for the present prosperity of the country belongs to the Republican party and as specific instances of wise economic legislation named tax reduction, paring of Government expense, the diminishing of the national debt and reduction in the size of the standing army.

Praising the record of Herbert Hoover as engineer, relief worker and statesman, Patterson predicted a victory for both State and national tickets in the November election.

Henry S. Gaultfield, candidate for Governor, also was speaker at the meeting. Asserting that Missouri is essentially a Republican State he predicted the Republican ticket would be carried to a victory in November. Among the works of past Republican State administrations the speaker enumerated the hard roads system, an economical record of taxation and an improvement in standards of the public schools.

Ex-Gov. Sweet of Colorado Assails Smith's Stand on Liquor.

Gov. Smith's stand on prohibition is causing him the loss of thousands of Democratic votes, former Gov. William E. Sweet of Colorado, a Democratic supporter of Hoover, declared yesterday in an interview here. Sweet predicted that both Kentucky and Tennessee, in which he has been speaking, will be carried by Hoover and asserted that in Texas, where normally there is a strong Democratic majority, the election in November would be "very close." Sweet now is stumping Missouri against the Democratic presidential ticket.

Herbert Hoover, deserves the gratitude of voters of German descent because of his record in providing food for the Germans after the war, Mrs. George Dietz, president of the West End Women's Republican Club, declared yesterday in a radio address over Station KMOX.

Mrs. Dietz's talk was the first of a series to be given under auspices of her organization. Other speakers are to be: Today, Mrs. Doris Farley, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee; tomorrow, Mrs. G. V. R. Mechin; Thursday, Mrs. John L. Pritchard, chairman of the women's section of the Missouri Engineers' Hoover-for-President Committee; Friday, Mrs. William T. Nardin, chairman of the Republican Women's Club; Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, general national committee woman, will make the first of a series of three Sunday radio talks, next Sunday evening.

BRITISH EDITORS FIND CAMPAIGN ISSUES TANGLED

Personalities of Smith and Hoover Are Outstanding Factors, Visiting Party of 14 Decides.

ALLEGED SECRECY OF TREATY DENIED

Ralph D. Blumenfeld Says St. Louis Is Noisier Than London—Amazed at New York Crowds.

American urban life, particularly New York City, is noisy and turbulent. The present political campaign is being carried on with a "good deal of temper." The outstanding issues of the campaign are the personalities of the two major candidates, Americans in their homes talk in quiet, almost hushed voices, but on the streets and in restaurants, they speak with marked loudness.

These are among the impressions that America thus far has made upon the group of 14 British editors, visiting Americans as guests of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, since their arrival in this country Oct. 1. The party, headed by Ralph D. Blumenfeld, president of the British Institute of Journalists and editor of the London Daily Express, reached St. Louis about 11 p. m. yesterday. They will depart Friday for Kansas City.

"We have found a good deal of temper shown in your campaign," said Blumenfeld to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Not that we mind it. We're rather used to it. Elections in England are of course purely party. We have no national election there in the sense that you have here. The selection of a Prime Minister is the result of many local elections. These latter are sometimes full of temper. The contestants remember they are gentlemen, of course, but there is a good deal of recrimination."

"Can't Sort Out Issues." The issues in the present campaign, Blumenfeld finds, are tangled. "I haven't been able to sort out all the issues," he said. "It seems to me the personalities of the two men—Hoover and Smith—are the outstanding issues. The press, I believe, has emphasized the personality of the candidates. As a result, the issues are confused, it seems to me. The wet and dry business—no, I won't go into that. "We find America noisy. New York is much noisier than London. So with Chicago. So with St. Louis. We were astonished at the cheering crowds in New York. We found New York youthful, vigorous."

Boston, the journalists found, gives more evidence of its age than New York. Their major impression of the country, Blumenfeld said, includes its economic wealth, its amazing resourcefulness, its wealth.

Friendship of Two Nations. "We know America as the principal trade rival of the British Empire," Blumenfeld said. "And we know America also as the principal partner of the British Empire in world civilization. It is with that we should come here to study your virtues. British-American friendship is one of the great imperatives. For this reason, among others, the story of a secret Anglo-French treaty is ridiculous. Neither British nor France would seek to offend America."

In this connection, Blumenfeld said French and British diplomats had been up a proposition, "listing the points concerning disarmament on which they could agree. It wasn't a treaty," he said. "It was a proposition that was to be submitted to everybody. Why, no British Ministry would enter into a secret pact. It would be mad on their part."

Denies Secret Treaty Story. "For instance, any member of the House may rise, when the House is in session, and address a question to the Prime Minister. The Prime Minister must answer the question or fail to do so at the risk of having his motives questioned. Some member of the House of Commons will undoubtedly inquire as to this 'secret treaty'." No Ministry, I believe, would care to take the chance. And if a Ministry concealed a treaty, a new party coming into power would learn of the concealment and spread it through the country. There is nothing at all in that secret treaty story."

Speaking of ministerial government in England, Blumenfeld went on to a discussion of the "huffing" factors in American political life. "You elect a President every four years," he said. "But election year has comparatively little to do with carrying out of his policies. An American Congress can vote itself blue in the face, run-

Reception in St. Louis Made Gov. Smith Feel at Home, He Says; Much Gratified at Big Crowds

Democratic Nominee Shows Deep Interest in City and Suburbs—Replies to Moses' Criticism on Tariff Speech.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 16.—At a press conference held aboard his train immediately after the departure from Kirkwood yesterday afternoon, Gov. Smith expressed great elation at the reception given him in St. Louis and suburbs. He said he was tremendously impressed not only by the size of the crowds but also by their warmth. "I felt like I was at home," he said.

He displayed unusual interest in the community itself, and during the conference asked many questions about it. His attention was called to a statement by Senator Moses (Rep.), who, in commenting on Gov. Smith's tariff speech at Louisville, said the Governor had displayed ignorance of the power and duties of the tariff commission. He glanced at the newspaper report, and retorted:

"Either Senator Moses did not read my speech, or he read it and did not understand it; or he understood it and misstated it. He is welcome to his choice of the three."

Following is a partial stenographic record of the conference: Press: Governor, in this morning's edition of the Louisville Courier-Journal, there is an Associated Press dispatch quoting Senator Moses in which he makes one significant statement in answer to your tariff speech. Handling newspaper to Gov. Smith.

Gov. Smith: Well, refer him to former President Taft. The statement itself is rather stupid. Nobody suggested that a tariff commission have the power to revise the tariff. It is a fact-finding commission to advise Congress.

What He Proposed. Press: In other words, what you proposed was to have it actually do what it is now supposed to do, but does not do? Gov. Smith: Absolutely. do what the people are paying it to do, but which it does not do.

Press: That is simply to carry out the original purpose of the enactment? Gov. Smith: Absolutely. The original purpose of Taft. All you have got to do is to read Taft's message to the Congress in 1908 and his speech in Oregon.

Press: Governor, do you figure this elastic provision of the tariff is a good thing or not—for the executive to have the power to raise or lower tariffs as much as 50 per cent? Gov. Smith: I have not given any study to that. I do not know much about it. If it is there when I am elected, I shall use it in the right way, and, if it is not there, this is the way to do it. (By a commission.)

Comment on St. Louis. Press: You would not have supposed today that St. Louis is a normally Republican city by about 45,000, would you? Gov. Smith: It certainly did not look like it to me.

Press: Governor, what did you think of the demonstration at St. Louis compared with others on your Western trip? Gov. Smith: Of course, St. Louis is a much larger city than any I have been in. It was very enthusiastic.

Press: "You were impressed with the friendly attitude of the crowds?" Gov. Smith: "Oh, there was no doubt about that."

Press: "You felt like you were among friends?" Gov. Smith: "I felt that I was at home. I felt all right about it. When I got back to the hotel and took my shirt and undershirt, you could write water out of them. The last time I was in St. Louis was in 1916."

Press: "When Wilson was re-nominated?" Gov. Smith: "Yes. We had the convention in a large hall that had a glass roof."

Press: "That was the Coliseum?" Gov. Smith: "It was built exactly on the principle of a hot-house. We sat there under the glare of the sun while Glynn was making his famous speech about 'What did he do?'"

Pressing Up Ohio. Press: "What is the significance of eliminating Ohio from all your itineraries?" Gov. Smith: "There is no particular significance in it; but I cannot go everywhere."

Press: "It has been a pivotal State in past elections, hasn't it?" Gov. Smith: "I cannot answer that. The National Committee members made up this itinerary. They must have something in their minds. For instance, I am going into Pennsylvania, where Democrats have not gone in the past. There is a reason for all this, but I cannot go everywhere. I would like to go into Ohio."

Press: "In other words, you think there is more chance of carrying Pennsylvania than Ohio?" Gov. Smith: "I think I will carry both of them."

Press: "If today is an indication, the only doubtful thing about Missouri is the size of the majority?" Gov. Smith: "Well, under our electoral system, it does not make any difference by how much you carry it. What is the population of St. Louis?"

Population About 800,000. Press: "It is about 800,000 inside the corporate limits, but you passed through three or four incorporated suburbs, some of which have a population of perhaps 40,000. The population of the city and its immediate western suburbs through which you came, is nearly a million. East St. Louis, through which you passed, has about 89,000."

GOV. SMITH SPENDS MORE TIME IN CITY THAN HE PLANNED

Scheduled to Leave Kirkwood for Sedalia at 2:30 P. M., He Departs at 3:39 O'Clock.

GREATLY PLEASED AT DEMONSTRATION

St. Louis, East Side and County Give Democratic Nominee Enthusiastic Reception.

Obviously pleased by his reception in St. Louis, Gov. Alfred E. Smith overstayed the announced hour of his departure yesterday afternoon and did not leave Kirkwood for Sedalia, where he is to speak tonight, until 3:39 p. m. It had been stated that his train would leave at 2:30 p. m., but he tarried at luncheon at Hotel Coronado. A crowd of about 2000 bade him good-by.

At the conclusion of his two-hour, 17-minute drive through St. Louis and East St. Louis, he said to reporters that the demonstration by thousands of persons who lined the route of his procession and who cheered him heartily and at times wildly, was "fine, wonderful."

Press: "More than 20 eastern trunk lines terminate in East St. Louis?" Gov. Smith: "Is that the Eads Bridge we went over?"

Press: "That is right; you crossed it twice?" Gov. Smith: "Governor, how were the responses on your tariff speech at Louisville?"

Many Telegrams on Tariff Speech. Gov. Smith: "Very good. I got a great many telegrams from all over the country."

Press: "Did you have any unfavorable reaction from Democrats who may still be attached to the theory of free trade?" Gov. Smith: "No, I couldn't say that I got a single kick."

Press: "You stated there that you thought conditions brought about by the war had made it necessary to lay down a new Democratic principle on tariff. Do you think the Democratic party generally is prepared to accept that?" Gov. Smith: "It has been indicated by the responses that they were prepared to do it."

Gov. Smith: "It is in the Democratic platform. The Democratic party declares for it unalterably."

Press: "Senator Moses continued his statement by saying that you had thrown away the tariff plank in the Democratic platform?" Gov. Smith: "Well, the Senator did not read it; or if he did read it, he did not understand it, or, if he did understand it, he misstated it. He can take his choice of the three."

Press: "Have you noticed that Senator Blaine of Wisconsin declared openly for you today?" Gov. Smith: "No."

Press: "Governor, do you think you have made your position on the Underwood tariff clear enough for Secretary Jardine to understand it?" Gov. Smith: "I would not like to say it is clear enough for him to understand it, but I understand it, and the country understands it. I have no doubt about it."

Press: "Do you expect to have any conference with Senator Reed on this trip?" Gov. Smith: "I don't know whether he is coming here or not. I have not heard from him."

Press: "Who are the Missourians on the train with you?" Gov. Smith: "The only one I know is the candidate for the Senate, Mr. Hay."

Press: "Governor, do you rest well on the trip, do you sleep?" Gov. Smith: "Yes. I sleep very well. I went to bed last night at a quarter of 12 and got up this morning at half past eight."

Parades Fatiguing. Press: "What is more fatiguing, the parades or the speeches?" Gov. Smith: "The parading. I think, is harder. It lasts longer. I am not quite used to that as I am to the speaking."

Press: "You must sit up and keep alert?" Gov. Smith: "It is hard."

Press: "Do your arms get very tired?" Gov. Smith: "Well, a golfer does not mind it as much as another fellow would. You see, everything in this world is for the best. Divine Providence, in its infinite wisdom, makes things equal. So that I would have plenty of preparation for this Divine Providence has put my golf score terribly high, which gives me an awful lot of practice."

Press: "Governor, what happened at the various places where your car stopped during the parade?" Gov. Smith: "We were just proceeding through St. Louis County to Kirkwood."

ANTI-SMITH VOTES PROMISE HOOVER 3D DISTRICT LEAD

Republican Nominee Is Expected to Receive 5000 Majority in Normally Democratic Territory.

AREA'S 10 COUNTIES PROTESTANT AND DRY

Former Secretary Is Not Popular But Probably Will Profit From Democratic Defection.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LIBERTY, Mo., Oct. 16.—The election prospect in the Third Congressional District, composed of 10 counties extending from the Missouri River north to the Iowa line and toward the western part of the State, is for a switch from the small Democratic majority of 1924 to a Hoover majority in excess of 5000 this year. Although Democrats, more or less at sea about conditions, say there is a remote possibility the district is not apt to go quite so strong against Smith as it did against Senator Reed in 1922 when Reed's opponent, R. R. Brewster, carried it by 745.

Dry and Protestant as these counties are, there is strong anti-Catholic sentiment throughout the district, and strong opposition to wet candidates. There are indications of some gains for Smith from Republicans, but these do not appear extensive in any county and will not approach the Democratic losses to Hoover.

There is little pro-Hoover sentiment in any of the counties, most Republicans having been opposed to Hoover before his nomination. Some of them, especially farmers in the north part of the district, are not yet in line for the Republican leaders in the district, but the defection is not general and Republican leaders in the district express confidence that, by election day most of them will have decided to vote the Republican ticket without scratching.

Hay and Wilson Strong. There is virtually no affirmative support of Hoover among Democrats, and those who vote for him will do so solely because of their opposition to Smith.

Francis M. Wilson, Democratic nominee for Governor, and his associates on the State ticket appear decidedly stronger than Smith through this part of the State, and there is a chance for the State ticket to carry the district, with Wilson and Charles M. Hay, nominee for United States Senator, heading it. There is no apparent opposition among Democrats to Hay or any of the State nominees, but all will fall short of the usual Democratic vote because of stay-at-homes and of some Democrats who will vote the straight Republican ticket.

The heaviest Smith losses seem to be in Clay, Ray, Douglas, which normally are Democratic by from 2000 to more than 3000. A Democratic majority of more than 1500 is not expected in either this year, and it may go far below that figure.

Conditions have been slowly improving for the Democrats during the past week or 10 days, and may continue to improve. Estimates made at this time are no more than estimates, and probable majorities given now may be altered quite a bit in the remaining three weeks of the campaign.

Congressman J. I. Milligan, Democrat, appears to be fairly strong in the district, and there seems to be little question about his re-election. He always runs stronger than the balance of the Democratic ticket, having won in 1922, when the district went heavily for Brewster, Republican, for United States Senator.

Situation by Counties. In 1924 the Third District went for Davis over Coolidge by 1227. Harding carried it in 1920 by 3256. Hawes won for Senator in 1926 by 4008, and the same year Milligan carried it by 5985. The political history of the district and the probable result in this year, as nearly as it can be calculated at this time, follows: Caldwell County—Harding carried it by 1665. Coolidge by 1162. Brewster by 1815 and Williams for Senator in 1926 by 917. It is consistently Republican, but has a normal Democratic vote of about 2400. A Hoover majority of approximately 1600 is expected.

Clay County—Normally Democratic by more than 3000. Cox carried it by 3488. Davis by 2078 and Hawes by 2523, but, showing how these Democrats will scratch when they take the notion, Reed majority in 1922 was only 250. Ten days ago, Democrats say, it looked like Smith would do well, if any, better than Reed, but they now report marked improvement and are hopeful they can get some-

Woman Passenger Tells Of Short Rations After Zeppelin Hit Squall

Lady Hay Says It Was Tragedy When Wine Gave Out, but There Was Boiled Ballast Water to Drink.

By LADY DRUMMOND-HAY, Only woman aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst.

WOMAN ON ZEPPELIN

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16.—I have enjoyed every minute of the journey from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, and I am sorry to leave the ship.

The motors worked perfectly under the truly wonderful supervision of Chief Engineer Siegle and Baurle. Every man played his part manfully and bravely.

The transoceanic trip has not been without intense dramatic coloring. The emotional send-off, flying over the Mediterranean; Barcelona by night; the last sign of land by day; the storm; working by day, watching by night; the epic of mending the damaged linen. Fair-haired Knut Eckenrode, son of the commander, Samt, Ladwig, Knorr were among those who risked their lives on that perilous task. Dr. Eckenrode slept only eight hours since we left Friedrichshafen.

A Father's Devotion. The night following the gale Knut was on watch on the damaged fin, darkness, no electric light, only flash torches. One false step would have meant his death. His commander, his father, in agonizing need of sleep, slept, woke with horror, dreaming that Knut had made the false step. How could he sleep? He did not, but lay hour after hour, longing with all the intensity of his father's heart to recall his boy from the watch he himself had set him. Discipline is discipline. Knut must remain. Knut remained.

Dr. Eckenrode is a hero. It is not for me to tell the story here, but when told it will move to tears and wring hearts with pain.

The trip was a terrible strain on the officers. They have not been able to sleep, they have fought, struggled to meet the great airship's demands for support.

The dramatic story of this pioneer journey has still to be told. The night of Oct. 14 was another day of the details of which will be disclosed later.

Some Passengers Grumbled. The passengers provided a wonderful story. Some grumbled because they did not find the luxury which they expected. Although every one knew that this must be an experiment. The steward could not serve 60 people for three meals a day and also do the cabins. The first day, the cabins were left until midday, but long before that I had made up my own, and so I had Commander Rosendahl. Finally the other passengers took a hand at their own cabins. After that no one bothered any more. The lazy ones left the beds all tumbled; the more orderly made their own places tidy.

After the storm which damaged the ship's fin we picked up for meals. Bread and butter, cold meats, coffee. Everything ran out even fresh drinking water.

If there was no wine (at first, the fact that wine had run out was regarded as a tragedy) there was always the ballast water which could be boiled.

50 Pounds of Baggage. The two previous flights I had made in Zeppelins, one in 34 hours over the cold North Sea, North Germany and England, impressed the inadequately protected participants that Zeppelin traveling is a chilly proposition, so the dawn of the day of departure, Oct. 11, found me struggling with a pile of heavy garments.

Capt. Hans von Schiller, who was in charge of such matters, gave out that the baggage allowance was to be 50 pounds. Very generously he said that we need not count in cameras and typewriters.

The start had been delayed a day, and expected to be delayed another day or so. Then at 7:05 a. m. came a telephone call from the Zeppelin shed that everyone was waiting. Only a woman can appreciate the agony of the scramble. Everything went anywhere. With hotel porter and chauffeur I ran, through the workrooms to the hangar. "Hurry! Hurry!" Dr. Eckenrode cried, laughing. At last we were aboard.

All of a sudden a cold chill seized me. In my hurry and rush I had left in my room at the hotel a new coat, even worse "the" new coat which Mr. Gordon Selfridge in London had especially designed for me. Could anything be more tragic? I felt it could not. Thrusting money into the hotel porter's hand I sent him to rescue it for

LUTHERAN LAYMEN URGE GERMANS TO VOTE FOR HOOVER

Business Men's Committee Praises Nominee's After War Relief Work and His Immigration Stand.

NEWTON'S SPEECH INCLOSED IN LETTER

Pamphlet Being Sent to Voters Declares G. O. P. Nominee Is Not Getting a Square Deal.

Letters in support of Herbert Hoover, praising his work for the feeding of Germans after the armistice, and commending his attitude on the immigration question in contrast with that of Gov. Smith, are being broadcast to St. Louis voters of German descent by a committee of five St. Louis business men, all laymen of the Lutheran church.

Those sending out the matter are Louis H. Walke, former soap manufacturer, who contributed $500 to the Hoover campaign fund; E. Seidel, manager of the Concordia Publishing Co., the Lutheran Church book concern; A. G. Brauer, president of the Brauer Supply Co.; W. S. Schlueter, president of the Schlueter Manufacturing Co., and E. H. Harms, president of the Hesse Envelope Co.

One of the inclosed leaflets, prepared by Seidel, is on the immigration question. The other leaflet is "A Square Deal for Hoover," by former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, and relates to the Republican candidate's service to the people of Germany after the armistice.

Not Getting a Square Deal. "Dear Fellow-American," the letter begins. "We are convinced that Herbert Hoover is not getting a square deal at the hands of some of our people."

"We find that a report is being circulated, for political purposes, to the effect that Mr. Hoover is the Belgian and the French and that he said: 'To hell with the German people; let them starve.' This report does not conform to the facts. Another piece of political propaganda is a report that Hoover drove 200,000 milk cows out of Germany, leaving German babies to starve. This is likewise untrue."

"If it had not been for Hoover supplying milk and other foods to German, Austrian, Hungarian and Polish women and children, immediately after the war, millions of them would have died from starvation. Milk cows and other live stock were driven out of Germany by the soldiers under the

There are no bargains in health

To safeguard precious health and preserve your teeth, avail yourself of the best skill and knowledge of dental science. It is economy. It is the only reasonably sure means of preventing disease that attacks neglected gums,
thus ravaging the system, robbing youth, and often causing loss of teeth.

See your dentist every six months.
Brush your teeth regularly. And don't forget that teeth are only as healthy as the gums. So brush gums vigorously, morning and night, with the dentifrice made for the purpose.

Forhan's for the Gums. It helps to keep them healthy.

After you have used Forhan's for a few days you'll notice a vast improvement in the way your gums look and feel. They will be firmer, sounder—
thus strong enough to resist disease.
Also you'll find that Forhan's safely and effectively cleans teeth white and protects them from acids which cause decay.

There are no bargains in health. So obtain the best protection that money can buy. Get a tube of Forhan's from your druggist and start using it today.

ning counter to the wishes of the executive, can veto the bills sponsored by the chief executive 500
times running, and yet the President continues to sit in the White House. This is extremely baffling for us, because the English system is based entirely on party responsibility.

Why a Cabinet Falls.
If the House fails to give the Prime Minister a vote of confidence, then he must retire, and a new government must be formed.
We do not elect our chief executive. We choose local representatives from all parts of England,
and the majority party in the House of Commons is given the Prime Ministry.

The journalistic paradox in the United States, for Blumenfeld and other members of the British party,
is bound up, on the one hand,
with the varied nationalities making up American life, and on the other, with the widespread stan-dardization of the press.

"Here in America you have perhaps the most inclusive nation in the world," Blumenfeld said.
"drawn from a large number of racial sources. And yet your newspapers are for the most part highly standardized. The news in Chicago is to a large extent what the news is in New York. And the papers look and feel alike. We can get only a little way with the news syndicate in England."

Comment on Prohibition.
Blumenfeld was a guest last night at the home of John H. Holliday, an attorney of 26 North Kingshighway. Other members of the party spent the night at Hotel Statler.

One member of the party commented amusingly on the true
status of prohibition in America.
"They told me about a speaker and took me to visit one,"
the editor reminisced of his New York visit. "Why, getting something to drink seemed quite simple. We simply sat down and gave our order and the waiter brought us pots of beer. It was obvious that you could have all you cared to buy. And there were other drinks for sale besides beer."

Today's program included a forenoon inspection of the plants
of the three afternoon newspapers,
a luncheon at the American Annex given by the Chamber of Commerce, and afternoon visits to the St. Louis University Medical School, the Liggett & Myers tobacco factory, Shaw's Garden,
Tower Grove Park, Washington University, Barnes Hospital and other hospital groups, the Zoo, the Art Museum, the Lindbergh trophies and Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Banquet Tomorrow Night.
Tomorrow there will be another tour of the city, a round of golf
at the Country Club, and a publishers' dinner at the Racquet Club in the evening. Thursday the visiting journalists will be taken for a steamer ride on the Mississippi,
after a luncheon given by the English-Speaking Union at Hotel Statler. They will leave at 9 a.
m. Friday for Kansas City by way of Columbia by bus.

The party includes Sir George Armstrong, editorial advisor to the Chronicle Group of Newspapers, including the Lancashire Daily
Post, London; William Cowper
Barrows, Yorkshire Evening News,
Leeds; Ralph D. Blumenfeld, pres-

MAN, 85, KILLED WHEN AUTO AND TROLLEY COLLIDE

John Ruback, Kansas Tourist, Dies in Hospital—Driver and Two Others Also Injured.

John Ruback, 85-year-old tourist from Williamsburg, Kan., died at St. John's Hospital this afternoon of a fractured skull suffered several hours earlier when an automobile in which he was a passenger collided with a Hodiament street car at Union boulevard.

appear at the inquest tomorrow. Xavier Meier, 35 years old, of Chesterfield, St. Louis County, died yesterday at Deaconess Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday night when struck by an automobile driven by Miss Ollie Kaiser, 3814 Melrose avenue, on the Manchester road at Manchester.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned today. Meier was a son of Mrs. Sophie Meier of Gumbo, whose suit for a daughter's share of the estate of her alleged father, William Edson, multimillionaire railroad owner, recently was settled out of court for $300,000.

John Cunningham, 3503½ West St. Louis avenue, a police chauffeur, driving his own automobile, ran down Spiros Tolas, 1120 Cass avenue at Jefferson and Washington avenues, last night. While taking the injured man to City Hospital his car was struck by a truck driven by Earl Fernandez, 1010 Market street, at Jefferson and Chouteau avenues. Police charged Cunningham with careless driving in the first accident and Fernandez in the second.

Benjamin Graves, 68, 5206 Emily avenue, suffered a fractured skull when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Kappel, 2153 Linton street, on Emily near Linton, last night.

MOVE TO LEARN HOW HEARST REPORTER GOT DOCUMENTS

French Ministry of Justice to Take Action, With Prosecutions Likely.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French Ministry of Justice will investigate the circumstances by which Harold Horan, Hearst correspondent, obtained certain French documents on the Anglo-French naval accord, which recently were published in the United States, leading to Horan's expulsion from France.

The case was referred to the Ministry of Justice at today's Cabinet meeting and the action is understood to mean that prosecution is likely for those connected with the proceedings by which the papers were obtained.

Mr. M. Has a Busy Morning

Mr. M. stopped at his favorite filling station on the way to work, and bought ten gallons of gasoline. The oil gauge registered a bit low, so he asked the attendant to put in a quart of oil.

Remembering the tires had not been checked lately he had a few necessary pounds of air put in each, and filled the radiator with water while he waited. All this took but a short time, and he was soon on his way again, arriving downtown at 8:32 a. m.

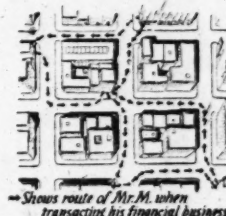

The first thing Mr. M. noticed on his desk was a calendar pad memo that three of his bonds had matured. He decided to attend to them at once, after reading his mail.

At 9:14 he left his office and went to a bank a block away, visited his safe deposit box, took out the bonds in question and clipped some overdue coupons.

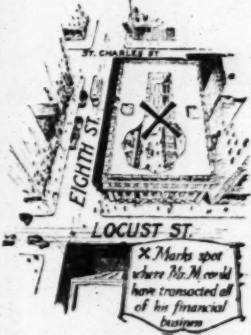

At 9:39 he entered another bank, two blocks away, where he deposited the coupons in his checking account.

At 10:17 he arrived at a third bank, and visited the bond department. Here, after looking over their list of offerings, he turned in the three matured bonds and took three 15-year debentures in their place.

At 11:23 he was back at the first bank again, where he placed the new bonds in his safe deposit box. Noticing that it was then 11:30 and the morning was almost over, he decided not to go back to his office, but to call on a real estate firm in the neighborhood to inquire about a house he had listed with them for sale. Finishing there, it was noon, and Mr. M. went to lunch.

Shows route of Mr. M. when transacting his financial business

Mr. M. goes where his real estate business is transacted

Mr. M. conserved his time by going to one filling station, where gas, oil, water and air were all available. He did not consider going to four places, one for each service. Why, then, did he go to four places for financial service, and waste a whole morning in so doing, when all of his financial needs could have been attended to under one roof, quickly, at the Mercantile Trust Company?

DIEMUND TO BE IN MISSOURI LNEUP AGAINST AMES TEAM

BAKER PROVES FIND OF YEAR; RAY SMITH AND REECE DO WELL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 14.—Satisfied with the showing his reserve men made in Missouri's 60-0 rout over Centre, Gwynn Henry yesterday began instructing his regulars in new plays and formations to be used against Iowa State Saturday in the Tigers' first conference game.

The work of big Jim Baker, 200-pound reserve tackle of Sikeston, Mo., furnished Henry with his first find of the season. The problem of the development of another reserve tackle to match the veteran Bill Smith had been facing Missouri coaches. Baker's performance showed him to be ready to fill the gap.

Earl Diemund, veteran back, who was held out of the Centre game with an injury, was back with the regulars, indicating he would be ready for the invasion of the Cyclones Saturday. Two other developments in the Centre game have heightened the Tiger grid camp. Kern Reece, fullback, and Ray Smith, center, both sophomores, justified Missouri coaches for placing them on the first eleven by their work, while Henry's No. 1 team was in the game for the final quarter. Reece pushed over two touchdowns and Smith played the kind of game that made his brothers, Clyde and Glenn, famous as Missouri center.

Aware of the fact that a half-dozen scouts from Nebraska, Iowa State and other Big Six schools were watching his team Saturday, Henry allowed his men to use only simple line plays. During the Centre game the Missourians used only 12 pass plays, relying on a powerful set of forwards to open holes for their running attack.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight, to cut short an attack of gripe, influenza, sore throat, tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger. Get a family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents. At any drug store.

Always Tired and Achy?

You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

EVERY day find you tired and achy? Suffer nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage? These are often signs of improper kidney action and shouldn't be neglected.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have won a nationwide reputation. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. A. B. Clark, 3831 Baker St., Detroit, Mich., says: "My kidneys acted irregularly and the least work tired me. I suffered severely from backache and it was almost impossible for me to do my work. I had headaches and dizzy spells, too. Doan's Pills soon had me feeling fine and all the annoying troubles left me."

COMMUNITY FUND DRIVE OPENS MONDAY

4000 Workers Who Will Seek $1,900,000 Pledges to Meet at Hotel Statler.

The seventh annual Community Fund campaign, in which 4000 volunteer workers will seek pledges aggregating $1,900,000 for the support of 51 philanthropic agencies of the fund during 1929, will open at 6 p. m. next Monday with a meeting of workers at Hotel Statler.

Activity this year will be concentrated largely on persuading the year-to-year contributors to increase the amounts of their pledges to take care of the increased total sought and for the loss of numerous large contributors through death.

Already 144 year-to-year givers have promised members of the Special Gifts Committee to increase their contributions for 1929 from 10 to 40 per cent, and in some instances even more. George M. Berry, campaign chairman, said today the increase should average about 20 per cent to achieve the goal set.

Among those who have promised to increase their contributions are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggins, who said they would increase their joint gift from $6000 to $10,000; Mr. and Mrs. Horton Walker, jointly, from $6000 to $7500; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, jointly, from $2500 to $3000, and the International Shoe Co., from $10,000 to $11,500.

It was estimated today that the amount of money sought in the campaign represents about one-tenth of 1 per cent of the taxable income of 63,455 St. Louisans making Federal income tax returns. The latest Government figures available are for 1927, when 63,455 individuals made Federal income tax returns, averaging $4895 each, a total of $310,612,235.

In the last Community Fund campaign 136,096 persons pledged a total of $1,716,656.44.

500 SPECIALISTS IN EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT AT MEETING

American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology Opens Sessions.

Five hundred eye, ear, nose and throat specialists from the United States and Canada and one from Europe are attending the thirty-third annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology which opened today at Hotel Statler to continue through Friday.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Dr. Luther C. Peter of Philadelphia, who then delivered an address in which he discussed the relation of sinus infection and ocular disease. He advocated close co-operation between nose and eye specialists in the diagnosis of eye diseases.

Dr. Peter cautioned against unnecessary sinus operations before complete diagnosis revealed ocular disease was caused by sinus infection, but, on the other hand, he warned against neglect to have a sinus operation when necessary, saying such neglect was apt to result in permanent impairment of vision.

Also on the morning's program was a symposium on "Recent Developments in Neurology as It Applies to the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat." Participating in the discussion were Dr. Ernest Sachs of St. Louis, Dr. Robert Levy of Denver, Dr. Lewis Fisher of Philadelphia and Dr. James F. McDonald of Omaha.

Among the speakers on the afternoon program is the only European attending the convention, Prof. Richard Waldapfel of Vienna.

ED MAYS SELLS CONTROL OF TWO BANKS IN CLAYTON

President of Lafayette Trust Co. Buys Holdings in Depositories for $220,500.

Ed Mays, former president of the First National Bank of Clayton and the Trust Company of St. Louis County, which are in the same building at 32 South Central avenue, Clayton, has sold control of the two institutions to A. C. F. Meyer, president of the Lafayette South Side Bank & Trust Co., acting for a group of unnamed purchasers.

Mays announced today the purchase price was $220,500. There will be no change in the operation of either company, he said, and Christ Riehl, who has been acting as president, since Mays resigned recently, will continue in charge.

Mays is under a Federal indictment charging violation of the Federal banking laws in connection with the operation of the Grand National Bank of St. Louis of which he also was president.

TEN YEARS FOR POSING AS HEIR

New York Man Charged With Getting $15,000 and Promise of Marriage.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 16.—Bernard F. Champayne of Ticonderoga, N. Y., charged with having obtained $15,000 and a promise of marriage from Miss Lucille Fields, a Richmond girl, by posing as the heir to the Baker chocolate millions and grandson of J. P. Morgan, was sentenced to 10 years in the State penitentiary by a jury in Hustings Court here today. It was the maximum punishment.

Miss Fields was not present, but her mother, Mrs. P. P. Fields, testified for the commonwealth. Champayne pleaded not guilty to the indictment, but was not represented by counsel and offered no testimony.

Do You Know What Pain in Right Side Is?

When you have a feeling of uneasiness, pain, sense of fullness just under the lower ribs on the right side, it indicates often that the liver is sluggish, the bile ducts clogged. Such a condition will cause headache, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, constipation, and should be corrected at once or gall stones may result.

You can safely take Bi-Lin, a new prescription of a noted doctor, which acts marvelously quick on a lazy liver—stimulating the bile ducts, releasing a free flow of bile, cleansing the liver and gall bladder of thick, sour bile, purifying the intestinal tract and ending constipation.

Begin Bi-Lin TODAY! You'll soon feel better than ever! No harmful drugs or narcotics. Guaranteed. Money back if not satisfied. All druggists.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of bark, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

HAS DISTRIBUTED MILLION COPIES FREE BOOK, "GERMS OF RHEUMATISM"

Interesting Little Book Traces Rheumatism From Prehistoric Days to Present Time

A 24-page, illustrated book different from anything ever published and tracing rheumatism from the prehistoric days to the present time, entitled "The Germs of Rheumatism" is now being distributed free at a local store. This book contains many illustrations, like the cripple hand shown here, and explains the how and the why of deformed and painful joints. It also tells of the part played by the plain language. The danger of alcoholic medicines for rheumatic sufferers is explained and one is told how to avoid such preparations and obtain better results without alcoholic medicines. In fact this book is very valuable for the sufferer of rheumatism who wishes to get well—who wants relief from the torturing, aching joints that make life miserable. In addition to the many suggestions given in this book you receive information about Weldon's tablets, a preparation for rheumatism which has been very successful in the treatment of chronic rheumatism of the joints. It is really wonderful how the pain and stiffness leave the joints after taking Weldon's tablets a short time. Weldon's seems to act very quickly in those cases that have failed to respond to the usual remedies.

The Weldon representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, explains more about Weldon's and gives out 24-page book "Germs of Rheumatism" absolutely free to all who call or write for them. Get your free book and do it now.

SYSTEM SEEMED POISONED; MAN RARELY FELT EASY

"I WAS in very bad health when I began to take Black Draught," says Mr. R. J. Black of Lockhart, S. C. "I had been sick for a long time. I could not eat heartily, and my rest at night was disturbed. I was troubled with the effects of gas pains, and I hardly had a comfortable day. I was nervous and worried. All I could do was to complain. I tried several things, but I could get no relief. All my ailments seemed to be the result of chronic constipation which caused my system to become filled with poison. I was getting worse all the time, but did not realize the real cause. One day a friend suggested that I try Black Draught. I had often seen it advertised, but I had never tried it. I began taking it right off, and no money could pay me for the improvement which came after I had taken it several weeks. I began to feel better. The bad taste which I had in my mouth every morning disappeared. My appetite improved, and I began to feel like a different person. I continued the medicine for several weeks, and since then I have felt fine. I am in better health now than I have been in years. Black Draught is a splendid remedy for constipation, and I am glad to recommend it."

Black Draught is a purely vegetable remedy, prepared from roots and herbs, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery. In use for over 87 years. Easy to take—no disagreeable after-effects. Sold by druggists in 25-cent and $1.00 packages. Try it. JA-86

OIL SHARES TO FRONT IN STOCK TRADE

Revival of Activity and Strength in These Issues and Extension of Recent Gains in Some High-Priced Shares Feature Irregular Market.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

Today	142.75
Yesterday	143.11
Week ago	143.11
Month ago	143.11
Year ago	143.11
High 1928	157.03
Low 1928	107.00
Total stock sales today	4,300,000

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Revival of activity and strength in the oil shares and the extension of recent advances in several of the high-priced industrials and specialties featured the irregular price movement in today's stock market. Profit-taking sales brought about sharp recessions in some of the recent leaders, but more than to score issues were marked up to record high levels during the session, some of the gains ranging from 1 to nearly 10 points. Trading was again in large volume, the day's sales running over 4,300,000 shares. The ticket was 40 minutes late in recording the final quotations.

Extensive readjustment of the bank's positions at the Federal Reserve Bank caused another temporary stringency in call money, which held firm all day at 7 1/2 percent. An early return flow of funds to New York is expected by bankers to bring the rate down to around 6 percent before the end of the week. Time money was in of the week. Time money was in of the week. Time money was in of the week.

Buying of Oils.
The sudden outburst of buying in the oil shares was credited to three factors: (1) the conference of oil executives interested in Venezuelan production; (2) report of plans for the formation of an oil export company under the Webb Act; and (3) the publication of excellent third quarter earnings reports by the Tidewater Associated and White Eagle companies.

Barnhill, Beeson Oil, Pennick & Ford and Mexican Seaboard all touched new high levels for the year. Pan-American B. Sinclair, Texas Corporation, Phillips and several others changed hands in tremendous volume, the gains ranging from fractions to nearly four points.

The growing tendency of corporations to split up the high-priced stocks, which found reflection today in the announcement of a recapitalization plan for Montgomery-Ward whereby each stockholder will be entitled to purchase two additional shares for $17.50 each for each share now held, provided the background for the advance in several of the so-called "blue chip" issues.

Montgomery-Ward 306.
Montgomery-Ward attained a new high record at 306 and then broke to 291 1/2, or 12 1/2 net, on the traditional "splitting on the good news." Motor Products closed 15 points lower at 135. Case Threshing touched a new top at 493 and then slipped back to 388 1/2, up 2 points net. National Tea soared 9 points to a new high at 309 and retained most of its gain. International Harvester reached a new high at 223 1/2, and then declined to 222, off 6 points net.

DePont advanced 5 1/2 points to 407, the best price in its history, and closed at the top. General Motors crossed 221 to a new peak and then settled back to 213 1/2, up 1 1/2 net. Chrysler fell from an early high at 133 1/2 to 132 1/2, off 1 point net.

COTTON FUTURES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Unfavorable weather advices from the South and the fact that the cotton market here today was in addition to covering and trade. Some broadening of the market was reported on the advance, which slightly over the 1 percent level. Rainfall was attributed by the New York market to cause moderate rain, but the afternoon market was steady at 20 1/2 cents.

LOWER ODDS ON SMITH TO CARRY CALIFORNIA

Other Quotations Election by Betting Commissioner Remain Same.

Betting odds on the presidential election were unchanged today with the exception that Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner, changed the odds against Smith's carrying California from 8 to 4 to 4 to 1, and against Hoover carrying California from 1 to 10 to 1 to 5.

That means that bookmakers who previously had offered to bet $5 to $1 that Smith would not carry California are willing now to offer only $4 to $1 that he would not carry that State, and instead of betting $1 to $10 that Hoover would not carry California, are willing to offer $1 to $5.

The odds quoted by Kearney do not in any way reflect his own political judgment, but are based solely on the amount of money bet from each state, the odds being so arranged that, no matter which candidate wins, the commissioner will make his commission for handling the bets. The change in California odds indicates that Smith supporters have put more money into the game.

A week ago Hoover was the favorite in the betting odds for Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri, but today the odds against either candidate in these states is 4 to 5; that is, the bookmaker offers to wager $4 against either candidate to the bettor's $5.

For election, Hoover still remains the heavy favorite. Kearney quotes 1 to 2 against the Republican candidate and 1 to 1 against Smith. In other words, the bookmaker will bet $1 that Hoover will not be elected against the bettor's $2 that he will, or $2 that Smith will not be elected against the bettor's $1 that he will.

In the gubernatorial races, Wilson and Capfield, in Missouri, and Ottinger and Roosevelt, in New York, are quoted 4 to 5 "stand-off."

In the following table Kearney's current odds are given State by State. In each case the first figure is the amount the bookmaker will bet against the candidate, and the second the amount the bettor must wager on the victory of the candidate.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pain, You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The symptoms clearly, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

—By—Marguerite Mooers Marshall

WOMAN'S PERENNIAL PROBLEM

HERE'S one for the book: "Miss Jessie Stephen, general secretary of the Domestic Workers' Union in England, after a survey of the employment problem in America, declares that domestic service offers a splendid field for the wide-awake young woman in the United States. The fact that wages are high, there is no overhead for the worker and the work is excellent pre-matrimonial training are her reasons."

Reading in an evening paper, what all housewives must consider Miss Stephen's pellucid and irrefutable logic, we thought, "Now, if she can only convert the wide-awake young woman in the United States, that will make it unanimous." Then we thought, twice, "Try and do it!"

Like innumerable New York women, we've just had our perennial brush with the domestic service problem. Our black Pearl of the Kitchen took a summer job with our blessing, an extra week's wages and an arrangement to return in the fall. Three weeks ago we wrote to remind her of the date of the family's return from the beach, and offered another week's vacation money. We got no answer, so we telephoned. Then came one of those characteristic comedies which will surprise few women.

Our Pearl's summer employer also had found her a pearl of great price. So the lady sweetly catechized us, instead of summoning the Pearl to the phone. She cast a watchful eye on our correspondence. She argued long and earnestly to convince the Pearl that she was better off working harder for less money under the lady's patriarchal eye—we don't supervise our maid's letters and telephone calls, and we pay over the market price for service in an exceedingly simple household of three adults. Finally, the lady tried repeatedly to reach us by telephone with "messages" from the Pearl—perhaps they were not hypothetical.

The whole performance was natural enough on the lady's part, even to the final outburst of peevishness in which she returned one of our letters to the Pearl, with a "not here—address unknown" notation. The Pearl had merely gone to her daughter's for a week's vacation, as the lady presumably knew, since the daughter is her landlady. P. S. We got the Pearl—she's crooning cheerily in our kitchen at this minute.

THE comedy, we repeat, is natural—from the average housewife's point of view. Yet what other modern employer, except the employer of a domestic servant, would use such methods as the lady's in order to retain an employee's services? Why didn't she simply offer the Pearl $2 a week more than we pay, if she wanted to keep her? Why did she butt in on the Pearl's legitimate business dealings with an old employer? Why shouldn't a servant be allowed to get telephone messages and letters without any sweet snooping and interference? Why shouldn't she sell her services openly in the best market, without hard feelings and underhand dealings on the part of the competitors for those services?

The reason, we fancy, is the reason why the "splendid field of domestic service" has not nearly enough cultivators—from the housewife's point of view. The reason is that the field is still under medieval and feudal rather than modern rules. The business relation between the household employee and her employer is insufficiently businesslike. This goes both ways.

It is not modern, it is not businesslike, for an employer to interfere in the private affairs of an employee. It is treating the employee like a feudal vassal. Yet many a housewife does that thing—it's what she calls "taking an interest," to ask her maid how she spends her Thursday afternoons and whether she's saving her money—to be inquisitive about her telephone calls.

It is not according to fair office or shop practice to make a worker work overtime, or on her regular day off, without additional compensation. Yet many a housewife with unexpected guests keeps her maid later in the evening, or on Sunday afternoon, and suggests no extra payment. We do not see how a rigid eight-hour day on an office schedule is possible in a household that breakfasts before the schedule would begin and dines afterward. On the other hand, a little planning and consideration would shorten considerably the actual working hours of the servant in the house.

SHE herself, however, is frequently unbusinesslike in her dealings with her employer. If, as so often happens nowadays, she lives outside the house, she almost never reports on time. She stays away for a day or longer without even telephoning excuses. She expects practically the same rate of pay, whether she is competent, fair-to-middling or simply terrible. What Miss Jessie Stephen says is true. American wages for domestic servants are high, overhead does not exist, the work is good preparation for matrimony. (To the argument that the social stigma keeps a girl from marrying out of the kitchen, the answer is that

RED CROSS FIRST AID MEASURES

STOPPAGE OF BLEEDING FROM A CUT IN ANY PART OF THE BODY.
(Posed and explained by Dr. W. J. Fenton of the American Red Cross First Aid Instruction Car.)

WITH the simple pressure of the fingers, according to Dr. Fenton, it is possible to stop bleeding from any vein or artery of the body, and thus prevent the patient from dying of hemorrhage before the attendance of a physician can be obtained. Dr. Fenton opposes the use of the tourniquet except in emergencies. There have been many cases in which well-meaning but misguided amateurs have caused the loss of an arm or leg by binding the limb too tightly with ropes, or even with wires twisted with pliers.

In the photograph reproduced here, it is supposed that the victim has suffered laceration of a blood vessel in the right side of the throat—for instance, from the broken glass of an automobile windshield. The operator kneels behind the patient, supporting the latter's head and shoulders against his breast. With the left hand supporting the chin, the fingers of the right hand firmly press against the bones of the neck, the large blood vessel running up the side of the throat to the butt of the ear. The pressure should not be relaxed until a physician arrives to take charge.

If the cut is on the other side of the throat, the position of the hands should be reversed. A similar procedure is indicated for several blood vessels in any part of the body, the point being to supply pressure on the tube between the wound and the heart. If the injury is to an arm or leg, the limb should be elevated.

The main points for applying pressure are just in front of the car for bleeding from the temple; the inner side of the arm below the armpit, about where the inside seam of the shirt comes; the inner side of the thigh near the groin, and the hollow "V" back of the knee.

In case pressure of the fingers fails to stop the hemorrhage, a tourniquet may be improvised from a strip of the shirt or a handkerchief, and tightened with a stick. Wires and ropes are forbidden. The tourniquet should be loosened every 15 minutes. If bleeding stops, it should remain loosened. But a close watch should be kept, and the bandage tightened again if bleeding resumes.

A DISH FOR TODAY

Sauce Mixture.
2 tablespoons butter,
2 tablespoons flour,
4 cups milk,
1 teaspoon salt,
1/2 teaspoon paprika,
1/2 cup whipped cream,
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Melt the butter and add the flour. Blend well and add the milk and cook until a creamy sauce forms. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Add the salt, paprika and strained celery mixture. Cook for 1 minute. Serve hot cups and add portions of whipped cream and sprinkle with parsley.

Use a coarse meshed strainer or colander to strain the celery mixture. As much as possible of the vegetables should be pushed through the strainer with the aid of a potato masher or cup.

both the girls and their employers know better. Mrs. Hal Chapter of Troy, Pa., after her kitchen had been robbed several times in succession by "happy men," advertised that "the most successful matrimonial agency in Northern Pennsylvania wants a good girl for general housework."

But the servant working and the low level of home-working competence will continue until all dealings between labor and capital in the home are conducted on a more business-like and a less fussy personal basis.

DANCES.

SHE comes! The spotlight flashes out
To muted melodies.
She moves like thistledown adrift
Upon a summer breeze.

(But I have seen the willow-leaves
On April mornings astir,
So glad, so gay their dances are
I turn my eyes from her.)

She treads fantastic measures
Through
With lithe and artful grace;
Her body is a slender flame
And fair her painted face.

(But I have seen the moonlight
Upon the tossing sea
This crowd, the music and the lights,
They drug, they stifle me!)

Mock Chicken Salad.

Dice any leftover cooked veal or pork and add 1/2 cup chopped celery, 2 chopped hard-boiled eggs and 1 tablespoonful capers for each cup of meat. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing, until well blended. Season with salt and a little cayenne and serve on a bed of crisp lettuce.

ETIQUETTE

By Katherine de Peyster

THE BRIDGE TEA.

A FRIEND of mine is visiting here with her family and I should like to give a bridge tea in her honor. Several perplexing details have arisen, and I shall be most grateful to you for any assistance you may give.

1. Between what hours should we meet? I shall give this tea at a hotel.

2. Should I have the invitations engraved, formally, or should I write them or just telephone?

3. I plan to have two tables for bridge, and should I be included in the hands, or should I not play?

4. Approximately what sort of food should be served; should I assist in the serving, which will no doubt be on the card tables, or should I leave it entirely to the servant?

5. Should I, with the honored guest, meet the others in the lobby of the hotel, or in the private room?

A. J. B.

1. Usually, when the bridge is followed by tea, the hour for playing is set for 2:30 or 3, depending on whether you wish an early or a late tea.

2. Engraved invitations are a bit too formal for this kind of party, and telephoning is a bit too indefinite, for sometimes the date or hour is misunderstood. I suggest that you write the invitations as a note, which is in excellent form, or use your visiting card, writing the date, day, hour and occasion on it. Over your name write, "To meet Miss Sarah Mills."

3. You should play.

4. The type of food is the kind served at tea, a "glorified" tea. You might add a salad, if you wish, say a fruit salad with some kind of special, interesting sauce. Then have toasted English muffins, or cinnamon toast, or small, hot biscuits, or small, buttered, hot waffles, or some form of cheese and crackers. After this, the sweets course a rich layer cake, or ice cream, or ice cream and cake, or small cakes only. Tea only, or better, a choice of tea or coffee, or tea and chocolate.

It is delightful for you to pour the tea or to ask a friend to pour, or for you to pour the tea and have a friend pour the coffee or chocolate. This plan will give the party more a touch of "home" entertainment. Or, if you prefer, the maid may do all the serving.

5. Meet your guests in the room that you have engaged for the party. By all means do not plan to meet them in the lobby of the hotel, since this would, I am sure, make you feel most conspicuous.

ADDRESSING THE PASTOR.

SOME of my girl friends have been wondering if it is necessary to address a clergyman in a personal conversation as "Mr. Brown," or should one use "Reverend Brown." Of course in introducing him we use his title, but think only "Mr. Brown" should be used in a personal conversation.

M. M.

When you address the clergyman in conversation or when you introduce him, you use "Mr. Brown." Unless, of course, he has a degree of LL. D. and then you address him as "Doctor Brown."

For Leather Stains

LEATHER stains usually contain tannin and are difficult to remove. If on white or light colored stockings dissolve half an ounce of oxalic acid in one pint of water, rinse the stain in this solution and repeat until stain has disappeared. Then wash thoroughly in usual manner. Leather stains on white stockings can be removed by soaking in a solution of two tablespoonfuls of borax to one pint warm water, then washing as usual.

Stains from leather automobile seats must be treated like varnish stains. Equal parts of benzol, acetone and alcohol will be found an effective remover, and often just wood alcohol will remove the stain.

To remove stains on leather saddle or a cloth with alcohol and rub the stains with it. Mildew can be removed from leather book covers by rubbing vasoline thoroughly into the leather with a soft cloth and, after leaving it for a time, rub lightly with a fresh cloth.

Boudoir Barometer

ENGLISH weather being what it is, a new device for the boudoir has appeared on the market. It is a barometer, thermometer and clock combination, intended particularly for a woman's dressing room, to help her decide what to wear in order to conform to prospective weather.

Imperial Sweet Potatoes.

Pare sweet potatoes and cut into small cubes. Place in a buttered baking dish and add 1 cup corn syrup, 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter and a little salt. Bake slowly for one hour. Delicious!

Fabric Lustre Vogue

CREPES in very dark colors have seemed a trifle dull as against the sheen of satins and velvets. A new finish has been given to this rich silk weave which results in a cool, silvery frost-like appearance, really adding much to the color tones.

Since crepe pleats remarkably well and drapes just as beautifully, this material in its latest expression may be used to advantage for either the simple tailored dress or the afternoon frock of swaying draperies.

It is said the sun will supply the earth with heat for some 150 million years.

★ Dentists

tell the three fundamentals
of mouth hygiene

HERE are the results of an investigation conducted among 50,000 practicing dentists. Their statements establish beyond any argument, certain fundamental truths about dental hygiene. It has been their experience that:

Acids are the most frequent cause of tooth decay and infected gums.
The most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—known as the Danger Line.
The best product known to neutralize acids in the mouth is Milk of Magnesia.
It is easy to see, from this consensus of professional opinion, that it is not only necessary to brush your teeth, but also to use a dentifrice that neutralizes the dangerous mouth acids that cause tooth decay.

Squibb's Dental Cream was made with this purpose in mind. It contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—an amount ample to reach into all those tiny pits and crevices on your teeth which are inaccessible to any tooth-brush. The Milk of Magnesia thus counteracts the acids, and remains to protect your teeth and gums after use.

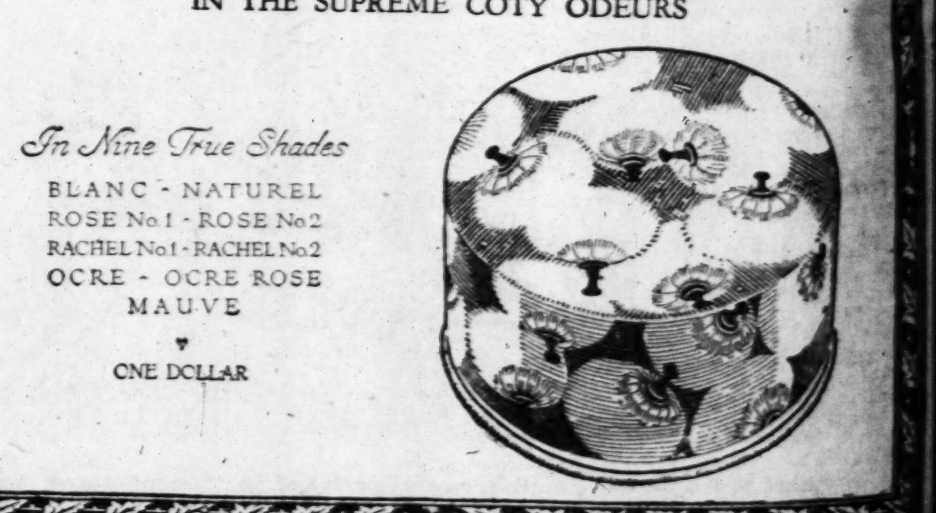

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans thoroughly, relieves sensitive teeth and keeps the gums in healthy condition. It contains nothing that can harm the delicate tissues in your mouth. You will enjoy using it. It's a large tube at all drug stores.
